COLLEGIANS DOWN A.U.H.S.

Staging a batting spree in the 3d and 4th innings that netted seven hits and eleven runs, the College baseball team administered a 12-2 trouncing to the Arcata high school nine in a five inning practice game Tuesday afternoon. Branstetter pitching for the College, held the prep school boys to four scattered hits, two of which were singles by Penn and one a triple by McFarland. Scott started on the mound for the Hi School and held the Collegians to one hit until relieved in the 3rd by St. Louis. The Collegians promptly pounded St. Louis's offerings to all corners of the lot until he was relieved by Scott in the 4th who held the College to one hit for the rest of the game.

Touhey with two out of two, and Merriam and Stromberg with two safeties out of three times at bat, led the Collegian sluggers.

W.A.A. AND ROTARIANS HOLD ANNUAL VOLLEY BALL TILT.

Wednesday evening the W.A.A. girls volleyball team met the men's Rotarian team. The girls emerged victorious by winning two out of three games. The W.A.A. team won the first game and the Rotarians the second thus leaving a tie score but the girls rallied in the third game winning by a close score.

After the game refreshments were served in the social unit which were preceded by a speech by Miss Lois Cottrell in which she said that she was extremely glad to have the Rotarians present and that she felt that the W.A.A. enjoyed the game this year more than ever before. Miss Brick Henningsen, chairman of the entertainment committee, then called on various Rotarians for speeches. This was followed by a short but interesting program which included a dance by Miss Hazel Mackley, a piano solo by Mr. MacGinitie, and a song by Miss Virginia McKillan and Miss Val Lee.

CHEER UP

Midterms aren't really so bad. If one has kept up on his work during the year, he needn't be afraid of a midterm. If one has not kept up his work, the midterm shows him just where he stands. These exams are not mere diabolical devices on the part of the Faculty to torment us poor students; they have to have some definite check on the work done by the student.

Midterms are really a benefit to the students. They act as a stimulant both before and after taking. Before the ex, everyone studies his head off to crack a good grade. After the ex, if one has received a good grade, he will try to keep up the good work. If his grade is otherwise than good, it behooves him to study harder. And the, most of us get somewhat of a kick out of taking midterms; they give us something to exercise our wits upon and they are excellent topics for conversation. All in all, midterms aren't so bad.

PROFESSORIAL PARADOX

"The honor spirit's great", he says

Before his quizzes start.

"But may I ask that each of you Sit seven seats apart."

LODEST

There's two good-looking guys in school--

I'll make a statement clearer:

The first is me--the second is my Reflection in the mirror.

THE MORON

(Written in self-defense)

Tell me I look like last year's rose,
Tell me I look laconic--
But listen--I've studied from 7
to 3,
Don't tell me I look moronic.

Tell me I need a dose of salts,
Tell me I need a tonic
But listen--I haven't been sleeping
at night,
Don't tell me I look moronic.

Tell me I have those "foreign"
eyes,
Tell me I look slavonic--
But listen--these midterms are getting me down
Don't tell me I look moronic.

TO ONE WHO SMILES

Just a child in this mighty world
So sweet and fair to see,
Smiling at life with your babyish
smile,
Living and glad to be.

Always looking so bright and gay;
With eyes so wondrous wise
That smile at things that are commonplace,
That twinkle at surprise.

Happy in life you must always be,
Though older you must grow;
Always keeping that dear little
smile,
A light that's forever aglow.

BOOP-BOOP-A-DOOP!!

Some will bot their heads in deepest mourning; others will look toward heaven and rejoice; some will be indifferent and others will laugh, but only those who were familiar with the editors office will really appreciate the rare walls that once supported pictures that were so dear to the staff. Shorty has to go on a tear every so often, and this time he tore all our pictures down.
