

Celebrating Writers and Writing in our Communities

---

Volume 5

Article 10

---

2023

Redwood Reverie

Ashtyn Hagge

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.humboldt.edu/rwc>

---

Recommended Citation

Hagge, Ashtyn (2023) "Redwood Reverie," Celebrating Writers and Writing in our Communities: Vol. 5, Article 10.

Available at: <https://digitalcommons.humboldt.edu/rwc/vol5/iss1/10>

This Poetry is brought to you for free and open access by the Journals at Digital Commons @ Cal Poly Humboldt. It has been accepted for inclusion in Celebrating Writers and Writing in our Communities by an authorized editor of Digital Commons @ Cal Poly Humboldt. For more information, please contact kyle.morgan@humboldt.edu.

Redwood Reverie

by Ashtyn Hagge

A long time ago, and a place far away,
I watched as the sun rose to greet the new day.
I watched morning birds feed their new chicks,
And a cat looking for mice hidden in the sticks.
I watched as heaven drew clouds on the sky,
And I stood very still as time slowly went by.
I drank in the crisp morning fog,
And listened to the croaking night frog.
I watched the wild slowly disappear,
And seemed to feel the end draw near.
Yet when it came time for me to fall,
I seem to silently relive it all,
Through the lives of my family,
For now, I am the cathedral tree.