Robert J. Henry, the only twice-elected Associated Students President in the history of Humboldt State College, and a student deeply dedicated to the improvement of education at HSC, resigned from office last Tuesday, after serving half of his current one-year term.

He will be succeeded by AS Vice-President John Woolley, who, like Henry, is a 22-year old senior political science major.

Henry Ends Four Years of Service To Student Body

In resigning from the AS Presidency this week, Bob Henry closed out a four year career of service to student government at HSC.

As a freshman in spring 1963, Henry became Tau Kappa Epsilon's representative to the now defunct Inter-Club Senate. The following fall, he was appointed to fill a vacant rep-at-large post on Student Legislative Council, and became deeply interested in the work of the California State College Student Presidents Association (CSCSPA), a statewide organization of student body presidents from the state colleges.

Henry planned and co-ordinated the December 1963 CSCSPA conference at HSC, and ran for AS Vice-President the following semester.

He held the Vice-Presidency during the 1964-65 school year, and ran for President in April 1965 against Dale Potts. He won the election by a wide margin, and narrowly defeated Jack Sheridan in his campaign for re-election a year later.

During his 1½ years as AS President, Henry has considered the role of student government to be one of supplementing and strengthening the educational benefits provided by the College.

Some of Henry's accomplishments in this direction have included:

1. The establishment of the Spectrum series of provocative lectures by outside personalities.

2. The organization of the Experimental College this spring.

3. The formation of the Tutorial Program, which has given Humboldt students an opportunity to tutor elementary and secondary school students with adjustment problems.

4. A program of resistance against proposed tuition in the state colleges long before Ronald Reagan became governor.

During his terms as President and Vice-President, Henry attended more CSCSPA statewide conferences than any other student in the organizations history, but suffered the disappointment of being unable to stimulate students at HSC with some of the vital educational programs proposed by that group.

Vice-President John Woolley, who, like Henry is a 22 year old political science major.

In his letter of resignation, which was read to Student Legislative Council by Lumberjack Editor Don Rubin, Henry said his class schedule and work schedule for the spring semester will not allow him enough time to successfully carry out the duties of the Presidency.

Henry regretted his resignation as well as his reasons for submitting it, but placed his confidence in Woolley, saying "John has the energy, the enthusiasm, and most important of all, the desire and ability to become a truly fine leader of our student government."

He called on Council to support the new President, and hoped for the continuation of programs to improve and make more meaningful the activities and functions of student government.

Henry estimated that the office of AS President takes about 20-30 hours of his time each week, but said that he was still able to carry 16 units this past semester and get a 3.83 GPA.

However, Henry pointed to the fact that he is married, and finds it necessary to increase his income. Therefore, he has accepted a 20 hour per week part time job. In addition, he must carry 19 units this semester in order to graduate in June, and between the two, Henry says there is just not enough time to also hold office.

Woolley is a relative newcomer to student government, having held no office prior to his election last May. But he has taken a great interest in student affairs, and according to Henry, "has prepared himself in just a semester's time to carry on and expand the many programs of the Associated Students."

Peace Corps Days at HSC Next Wednesday Thru Friday

Peace Corps Days at HSC will begin Wednesday and extend through Friday of next week.

Organized by the newly-formed Student International Co-ordinating Council, Peace Corps Days is designed to acquaint students with the opportunities available to Peace Corps volunteers as well as the advantages of serving with such an organization.

A Peace Corps information table will be located in the CAC during the three-day program, and a movie, "One Step at a Time," will be shown in Founders Hall and in the dorms during the evenings.

Three recently returned Peace Corps volunteers will be on hand, and one will be speaking from the Stump at 12:15 on each of the three days. In addition, they will visit as many classes as possible to talk with students and answer questions.

Experimental Enrollment High; CFT Organizes Statewide March On Sacramento

Registration for the Experimental College is running very high, indicating the kind of success for the program hoped for by student leaders, according to AS President John Woolley.

By last Tuesday, nearly a hundred persons had enrolled in one or more of the dozen classes offered this spring, with others signing waiting lists for several classes that have been closed out.

Another course was added to the Experimental College this week, entitled Workshop in Community Development: An experiment in helping others help themselves. The class organizers are Susan Bither and Norman Dunmire, both HSC students.

The purpose of the new course is "to bring a group of interested students together which have a concern for the quality of life led by the people in the society of which we are members," and to concentrate on helping the community of Manila on the Samoa Peninsula in enabling its aspirations to become realities.

The class organizers "do not see the students enrolled in this course as do-gooders, but as a group that has time and skills which complement the time and skills of those living in Manila, and when placed together can achieve what one or the other is unable to accomplish individually."

Students can still register for openings in the Experimental College at the special ASB information booth in the CAC or in the ASB office, Room 4, Nelson Hall. All students in the Experimental College will attend a general meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Founders Hall Auditorium where time and frequency of meetings will be decided individually by each of the twelve classes.

Henry Resignation Prompts New ASB Appointments

With the resignations of ASB President Bob Henry and Representative-at-large Dennis Griffith, Student Legislative Council, in its first meeting of the new semester, appointed Gary Morse as the new Vice President and Tom Osgood as Rep-at-large.

Gary Morse will fill the vacancy left by last semester's Vice President John Woolley who became ASB President with Henry's resignation.

Morse is a graduate student in game management from Los Angeles. He plans to continue in graduate school next year. He is a past president of Conservation Unlimited, and was representative-at-large last year. He was also editor of the faculty evaluation Big Brother, published last year. The new president John Woolley, stated that he welcomed Morse's appointment as being necessary to continue the programs in student government started this year.

Osgood is a sophomore pre-med student from Reseda, California. He is also a past member of Conservation Unlimited and is Homecoming Chairman for 1967. He has helped the Student Government Placement Committee and Publicity Committee.

Discussion of the tutorial program showed that more student tutors and staff members are needed to administer the program since the community has responded with so many children for the program.

Agreement was made by the Council to support any constructive criticism against the proposed tuition charge for the State Colleges. The petition circulated during registration and the first week of classes will be sent to Assemblyman Belotti and Senator Collier.

A statewide march on Sacramento, to protest Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed budgetary changes in California higher education, is being organized by the California Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, and is scheduled for tomorrow.

Notices have been sent to the California State Colleges and all branches of the University of California calling on students and other interested persons to participate in the march, which is designed to "demonstrate opposition to Gov. Reagan's scandalous treatment of educators and students."

Buses from Southern California to Sacramento are being chartered by the California Federation of Teachers. Marchers will meet at Sacramento State College tomorrow at 10 a.m., and plan to march from there to the State Capitol, where Gov. Reagan will be presented with the Statewide Petition for Better California Education, with discussion and speeches following.

One statewide student leader has denounced the march, saying it would "not be helpful in persuading the governor that his proposals should not be enacted."

John Blowitz, Executive Vice-President of the California State College Student Presidents Association (CSCSPA) and AS President of Cal Poly at Pomona, called for "more sophisticated" measures in dealing with the governor's proposals.

3194 Students Register Under New Procedures

Under a new registration procedure, 3194 students registered for spring classes at Humboldt State College last Thursday and Friday.

Registrar Thomas Price said the new system, which substituted green student cards for the white class cards previously used, worked "very well," and he received no complaints from students about its operation.

Price also said the new registration system tied in well with a new computer program, which will hopefully be expanded in the future to make registration easier.

Rosenthal Offers Aquatic Skills In Spring Extension Scuba Course

A non-credit course entitled "Basic Skin and Scuba Diving" will be offered through the extension program this spring.

The course is open to everyone over 16 years of age who can swim. Registration fee is $45, which includes rental of all necessary skin and scuba diving equipment.

The objective of the course is to "give the student, knowledge, competency, and confidence in underwater skills basic to skin and scuba diving activities."

The instructor for the course will be Richard Rosenthal, an experienced member of the National Association of Underwater Instructors.

The class will meet twice a week, Sunday afternoons and Wednesday evenings, and the first class meeting is scheduled for Sunday, February 19 at 1 p.m. at the HSC pool.

Course instruction will include classroom lectures, pool session, and two ocean dives in the Mendocino coastal area.

For further information, including details on how to register, call the Extension Office, 822-1771, ext. 268, or call Mr. Rosenthal at 822-6681.

Student Government More Meaningful Under Henry

Although many of them may never realize it, the students of Humboldt State College will be greatly affected by the absence of Bob Henry from the AS President's chair just as they have unknowingly been affected by his presence during the past year and a half.

Some of the most common complaints uttered by students about student government have been that it is unimportant, inconsequential, and not worth their time. But since Bob Henry has taken on a new direction, one that can make it a valuable and vital force in shaping and supplementing each student's education while in college.

Rather than exclusively concern student government with such menial tasks as dance sponsorship, pep parades, and voting themselves awards, Bob Henry has stimulated the interest that had led to such worthwhile and meaningful educational activities as the formation and promotion of the Experimental College, the most advanced educational revelation in decades.

Thanks to Bob Henry and others of his caliber, student government is no longer "playpen politics." And ASB elections should no longer be egotistical popularity contests between unknowledgeable, unthinking glory-seekers, but a chance for students to select the people who will formulate and carry out programs that will significantly affect them and the quality of the education they receive.

However, Bob Henry's chief adversary has always been student apathy, the kind of apathy that once prompted him to privately remark, "No matter how much work we do, no matter what new programs we come up with, the students aren't interested. They just don't care."

But as of late, many students do care, as indicated by the response Henry has received on the Experimental College, Tutorial Program, and others. Unmeaningful student government and lack of time are no longer valid excuses for perpetuating apathy. The only valid excuse for apathy is disinterest in one's own education.

But lack of time was the reason for Bob Henry's resignation. After four years of service to student government, he could no longer hold the AS Presidency while being simultaneously shouldered with the responsibilities of marriage, a job, and a 19 unit study load.

So he will no longer hold office. He will probably not even have the time to participate in the worthwhile programs he has helped initiate. But one thing is certain—he will never be apathetic. He will always care.

We are confident that John Woolley has the capability, desire, and the experience to continue and expand constructive, meaningful ASB programs. To him, we extend our support and our sincere best wishes for a successful and productive term of office.

Rights Should Protect People from Government

George Washington once said "Government is not reason; it is not eloquence; it is force! Like fire, it is a dangerous servant and a fearful master." These words are even more significant today, than they were when they were spoken. The fire that keeps us warm can be a tremendous servant, but it can also be a fearful master when we lose control of it.

That this should not happen here, we were given a Constitution. When the delegates met in the Constitution Convention of 1787, they provided us with a document that they believed would preserve the freedom of this country for a long time to come. This freedom was so important, that before several states would ratify they insisted that there be a promise of a Bill of Rights. But this Bill of Rights was not to protect them from their neighbors, it was to protect them from government.

Of all the freedoms implied in the constitution, none is so important as the freedom from government. Certainly the farmers were concerned that their property be protected from their neighbor, but they were even more concerned that it be protected from government.

This constitution which is so important to our freedom, has over the past many years been gradually changed until it has come to support government against the individual. It has been said that today the federal government could do just about anything and it would be considered constitutional. The document that was to protect us from government, is now being used to give government more control over our lives.

Certainly none would say that the Constitution can't be changed; it can be changed and has been changed many times. But the present problem is that many have changed it by interpretation, not by the methods set forth in the Constitution. It is the duty of the court to protect the Constitution, to be sure that it is not changed with-

by Jim Linn

If we are to serve our country for the betterment of mankind—others as well as ourselves—it seems that we ought to start thinking in terms of a professional, or at least a trained, force of Americans that will fight the real battles—hunger, illiteracy, savagery and materialism. Instead of teaching the young person of 18 how to kill another human being, why not teach him how to help one?

Imagine the results, if a program were initiated that was designed to utilize the constructive force of millions of young Americans in either professional or well-trained roles in the United States and abroad.

Yet, there are a couple of problems in this war against war. First, the indoctrinaire policies of the federal government would undoubtedly turn the program into a missionary affair which would produce the same results in foreign countries that have been produced in recent years. Essentially we need to rid ourselves of the egotistical idea that somehow it is our duty to convert the world to democracy.

Second, there would be intense opposition from the super-patriots who will never be convinced that the world can fare much better in peace than in war. Oh, they will tell us that they desire peace, but at the same time, they will support the army, fear that we are being infiltrated by communism, and can't understand the fact that different countries should be entitled to different forms of government.

Although the previous objections would hinder a peaceful program, there is no doubt that the risks of war are far greater than the risks of peace. Furthermore, the American people could finally stop trying to justify war as some form of moral activity.

There is yet another reason for abandoning the selective service system. A child grows up today impressed with the idea, the glamorous idea for many, that serving in the army is just something that is done. From the start, the little boy gets his toy machine gun, watches war movies on television, listens to his dad talk about the last war, reads war novels, and is impressed with everyone's favorable attitude toward the soldier. In short, he has no qualms about serving.

At the same time, he has grown up with the idea that the United States is always right, and its enemies always wrong. The result is a good soldier. He accepts passively the role of a potential killer and doesn't care that it is a human being that he is being asked to kill.

Now, if we were to concentrate our efforts on helping rather than destroying, it is conceivable that we might rid ourselves of the reproduction of war-minded individuals. If war can be an indoctrinated thing, why can't peace?

Instead of peace, however, American society has been overly concerned with things of very little importance. Few people seem to recognize the impending nuclear threat. Rather, they concern themselves with censoring what people read making the long-haired boys get their hair cut, and attending church socials. Of what importance will all of this be when the world is nothing but ash and simmering fire?

The alternatives to the young man of today are unfair and destructive. For those people who choose not to be conscientious objectors, but still oppose the killing of human individuals, there is little that can be done. Young Americans are faced with the frightening reality that they cannot love their country and love mankind at the same time. For those few who cannot face the irrational and impossible alternatives of the government, the only answer is to resist the draft.

Henry Gives His Thanks

Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of those who worked so hard on my campaign for re-election last year, with special thanks to the men of Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity. I can only say that at the time I was sincere in my plans to remain in office another year.

To all those students who voted for me last May I would like to say I am truly sorry I am unable to fulfill the obligation that I owe you.

To all those students who voted for my opponent I can only say that perhaps your worst premonitions about re-electing a student body president were to some degree accurate.

To all those students who did not vote (freshmen and transfers excluded), I have nothing to say.

Robert J. Henry

(Mr. Henry's opponent in last May's election has since dropped out of school)—ed.

Emphasis is On The Establishment, Not the Student

Dear Editor,

The purpose of my letter is to present a dissenting opinion upon the idea of higher education as a function of the governmental establishment. Higher education has never existed as an organizational entity, but has, and will remain an individual enterprise. It is indeed fortunate that the founding fathers of our country saw fit to set aside money to be used to provide a place where higher education could be sought. However, it is unfortunate that in reality all they accomplished was the production of guardians for the sacred knowledge they cherished so greatly.

Five years ago when I first began college I had an English teacher who said, "To seek education is to seek a better way of life," he then added that if a college was to be used as a place to seek this education the following things would be necessary in decreasing order of value:

1. Students
2. A place for students to live

3. A library
Somewhat hesitantly to this list was added:

4. A faculty
5. An administration

The purpose of the administration would be that of accountants to collect money that would be used to pay the faculty and to buy materials that the students would need to pursue their education. The reason for the decreasing order of important entities and objects should be immediately apparent; it puts the emphasis of the institution directly where it belongs—on the student.

As you can see, I do not feel that the present emphasis of education is for the student directly but rather for the maintenance of the establishment of education which serves as a source of employment for a faculty and administration, and serves as the official mouthpiece of the government or those who control its programs for whatever purposes they deem necessary, efficient, or good. Too often these purposes are not in accord with the primary objectives of education—the student and student's search to seek a better way of life.

Due to the present inefficiency of both government and its mouthpiece, the educational institutions, students are placed in a tertiary role on the college campus when they should be in the first and primary position. (Does anyone care to dispute this point?)

Much to my surprise newly elected governor Ronald Reagan has seen fit to cut educational costs. Undoubtedly he feels education costs the state too much money. Perhaps he feels he isn't getting his money's worth. No matter what he feels, I feel that the money cut back is

Text of Henry's Resignation

TO: John Woolley, Chairman of Student Legislative Council
FROM: Robert J. Henry
SUBJECT: Resignation as President of the Associated Students

Due to the time requirements of the office I now hold, and because my class schedule and work schedule will not allow me to devote the necessary time to this office, I find myself forced to resign as President of the Associated Students of Humboldt State College.

For those of you who know me well, I am sure you realize that I would rather resign in protest than simply plead "not enough time," but dammit, that is simply the case. I feel quite fortunate as should the entire student body, that our current Vice-President has prepared himself in just a semester's time to continue and expand the many programs of the Associated Students.

John has the energy, the enthusiasm, and most important of all, the desire and ability to become a truly fine leader of our student government. But, and this is directed to you members of Student Legislative Council, he cannot do the job by himself. From you members of SLC John does not need one hour a week, he needs the energy of 14 disciplines. He does not need yes and no votes once a week; he needs advice, support and TIME every day of the week. He does not need uninformed or disinterested members of SLC; he needs active and sincere members. He needs members who are sincere in their efforts to make student government meaningful to the students on this campus.

I have always believed the only reason students on this campus are apathetic towards our student government is the fact that our student government has not given students many things to be excited about. However, I feel we are on the threshold of creating a very meaningful student government, for in John Woolley you will have a most sincere driving force to lead you and not someone who is becoming tired of the situation, as I have this past month.

My suggestion to SLC would be to sit down in an informal caucus and determine among yourselves which members are sincere in their efforts to make student government a positive force toward substantially improving the education of the students of Humboldt State College. For those members who find they are sincere in their efforts, I would prescribe another caucus in which they should determine ways in which SLC will become more than a once-a-week operation. I would like to see an SLC that is a positive, INITIATING group in its own right, and not one that has become almost purely reactionary. At this time, I consider every present member of SLC capable of creating such an organization.

With this resignation I am formally bringing to an end four years of participation in student government, and as I look back, I believe my greatest achievement is the fact that I never knowingly stood in the way of any program or idea that was designed to improve the life and education of the students of Humboldt State College.

I believe this letter makes the most out of a non-protest resignation.

Robert J. Henry

Church Divergence Topic for Seminar

A weekend study seminar sponsored by the Committee for Student Christian Action of the University Christian Movement will be held February 18-20 at the First Methodist Church of Arcata.

The seminar will concern itself with the meaning of Christianity, the Church's need for a comprehensive change and the Church's increased self-awareness as a part of a society in transition. Background lectures, study seminars, and structured dialogues will be some of the methods employed in dealing with the topic.

A brochure describing the seminar and outlining its activities will be distributed on campus during next week, and information is available in the Campus Ministry Office in the CAC.

Sensuous Poetic Program Begins Presentation Today

The Pegasus Program, a poetry series affiliated with the San Francisco Poetry Center, start today with an introductory lecture by Dr. Mark Linenthal. The lecture will start at noon in Sequoia Theatre and conclude no later than 1:50 p.m.

The Pegasus Program..... which takes its name from the winged horse of Greek mythology--attempts to revolutionize the teaching of poetry by putting students in direct contact with poetry as a living art. For that reason contemporary poetry is emphasized.

To Pegasus personnel the poem is not an object of academic study--not an organization of mute symbols to be painfully decoded. Poetry Pegasus personnel feel, should be a vivid and memorable personal experience.

The Pegasus Program brings poetry to life through lectures, films, poetry readings, and discussions. The program has enjoyed resounding successes at Bay Area schools, and educators have praised the program since its inception.

Dr. Linenthal will present a general introduction to poetry. Currently the director of the San Francisco Poetry Center, Dr. Linenthal is eminently qualified both as critic and lecturer. He holds a B.A. and M.A. from Harvard and a Ph. D. degree from Stanford University. He has taught in Germany, at Stanford University and Reed College, and is currently a Professor of English at S.F. State.

In addition, Dr. Linenthal has published a text--Aspects of Poetry: Modern Perspectives... and S.F. Chronicle frequently publishes his reviews of new books of poetry. He was recently rated "excellent" by the student evaluation system at San Francisco State College.

Dr. Linenthal is the first in a series of speakers who will appear under the Pegasus aegis. He will be followed on March 3 by poets Jack Gilbert and Linda Gregg who will read from their work, answer questions, and entertain discussion on poetry today. A film on the life of Robinson Jeffers, with a lecture will conclude the program in early April.

The program is being brought to Humboldt State by Spectrum '67, an ASB organization, with the assistance of PACE (Projects to Advance Creativity in Education) through Jack Marlowe, its representative.

Oh, Woe, The Throes of Registration

New Procedures Change Registration, But It's Still Recognizable

One innovation this semester was the formation of the registration line in the Field House instead of the Womens' Gym (above). But the line was long and as slow as ever.

After that, the student got to stand in another line (left) where he picked up his seven green course cards. If he needed any more, he could have some made by cheerful personnel at the special IBM center on the west wall (below).

"And if Advanced Folk Dancing is closed, I'll take any of the classes still open at CES."

Traditionally helpful at registration are the I.K.'s and Spurs. At right, two of their more industrious members survey the scene for someone to help.

Department lines moved smoothly, but tediously (right). Art on Thursday and Social Sciences on Friday were the busiest lines, while Journalism never had a line at all.

At left, a coed is caught in the "squeeze" of trying to have her course card accepted before the class closes.

And close the classes did, as indicated by this shot of the Closed Class Board, at noon Friday.

FORUM: We Must Experiment!

by Bob Betonte

FORUM . . . presents timely and provocative opinion and discussion on subjects of general interest. Faculty members and students are invited to submit material on any topic. Manuscripts may be submitted to the Lumberjack editor in LA 13 and should not exceed 1000 words.

Governor Ronald Reagan's desire to cut the budgets of our state institutions of higher learning points to a trend which has been developing in this country over the past 20 years. The college has become a plant which processes raw material, the student, into a finished product, a technician, who can play a productive role in our economy.

It is then an easy matter to locate areas along the production line in which more efficient methods may be used to reduce time and costs. This view of higher education is the partial result of the impersonal nature of our super-market society.

There has been an increased reaction in previous years to this "industrial revolution" in education. The raw material is refusing to be processed; the student is looking for something more meaningful. The result has been the founding of colleges of a different sort, including the Free University of Seattle, New College at Sarasota, Florida; and the Experimental Colleges at several California State Colleges, including Humboldt State.

These schools are a direct result of student dissatisfaction toward the impersonal and highly standardized form of education presently being offered at most colleges. The system is at fault, because it attempts to fit individuals into a standard form represented by requirements for majors and the determination of specific sets of facts to be learned in each course. The result is a philosophy of non-structured education in which the individual chooses what he is going to study and his rate of progress.

This goal is accomplished in two ways. By allowing a student to register for any subject, whether or not there is a course offered, the student has freedom of direction. If no class is offered, the subject may be handled as either an independent study course, or if other students are interested, it may be organized as a seminar or lecture course. Also, in highly developed experimental situations, such as New College, the degree is awarded on the basis of tests which determine accumulated knowledge, and not the accumulation of course credits.

Experiments in education are just that—experiments. Those who participate are guinea pigs. The future of education, like the future of science, is dependent on experimentation. If our schools are going to produce minds capable of seeing the implications of modern technology as well as capable of playing a creative role in society, we must move away from the restrictions of standardized education. We must experiment.

in line with the quality of education that is available in our colleges. I got a good laugh at the professor's union protest against wage stiffening. My friends, if you had been doing your job you would have gotten your money! As a tertiary citizen of the college community I have only one right, and that is to voice my opinion (even this is doubtful). Thank you Mr. Reagan. If I had been a primary voice in the college community I would have fired 80-90% of the faculty and all of the administration of the college two years ago. My primary reason for this act would have been that these people are inefficient and are successfully hindering the education of the tertiary citizen (students seeking a better way of life).

News Briefs

Governor Ronald Reagan has postponed his proposed "citizens' inquiry" into the activities of the University of California, until after a new president has been selected for the University, and has had a chance to take office.

During the campaign, the governor had reiterated his belief that an inquiry of this type, headed by former Central Intelligence Agency Chief, John McCone, would be necessary in order to restore confidence in the University.

In announcing the postponement, Reagan referred to the recent dismissal of University President Clark Kerr, and said "It would be unfair to ask a new University president to take office in the midst of such an inquiry."

The governor said that McCone is in complete agreement with this decision.

March 4, 1967, will be the date of this year's Forester's Ball. Dick Magan, dance chairman, issued an invitation to the entire campus this week to attend.

"I want to make it clear that this dance is for the entire student body, not just one group. In the past, the title of the Ball has seemed to imply that it was a closed dance, but this is simply not the case. We are putting this dance on," he said "for the benefit of the whole school, so that we may all enjoy a dance like the Sno-Ball in the spring semester."

The Ball will be held at the Eureka Inn on Saturday, March 4, at 9 p.m. Music will be by Jerry Moore and his band, who have played for the Sno-Ball in the past. The dress is semi-formal, as at the Sno-Ball. Bids are available in the Bookstore.

KHSC-FM will resume broadcasting on Monday, February 13, 1967 according to station manager Hersch Brown. The station will broadcast at 700 kilocycles on AM to the dorms, from 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Friday.

KHSC-FM, at 90.5 on the FM dial will sign on at 5 p.m. and broadcast until 11 p.m. daily. Program schedules will be printed and distributed within the next month.

The program schedule will consist of broadcasts from the National Educational Radio Network, including: The George-town Forum, War, Challenge or Disaster, and Footlights and Fancy; Local programming, including Campus After Dark, Jazz Line, News and Sequoia Concert will be featured.

Monday, at 8 p.m. Sequoia Concert will present the duo-piano concert presented recently in Sequoia Theatre, featuring Professors Fulkerson and Moon with the College Chamber singers.

STAMP OUT YOUNG LOVE

It happens every day. A young man goes off to college, leaving his home town sweetheart with vows of eternal love, and then he finds that he has outgrown her. What, in such cases, is the honorable thing to do?

Well sir, you can do what Crunch Sigafos did.

When Crunch left his home in Cut and Shoot, Pa., to go off to a prominent midwestern university (Florida State) he said to his sweetheart, a wholesome country lass named Mildred Bovine, "My dear, though I am far away in college, I will love you always. I take a mighty oath I will never look at another girl. If I do, may my eyeballs parch and wither, may my viscera writhe like adders, may my ever-press slacks go baggy!"

Then he clutched Mildred to his bosom, flicked some hayseed from her hair, planted a final kiss upon her fragrant young skull, and went away, meaning with all his heart to be faithful.

But on the very first day of college he met a coed named Irmgard Champerty who was studded with culture like a ham with cloves. She knew verbatim the complete works of Franz Kafka, she sang solos in stereo, she wore a black leather jacket with an original Goya on the back.

Well sir, Crunch took one look and his jaw dropped and his nostrils pulsed like a bellows and his kneecaps turned to sorghum. Never had he beheld such sophistication, such intellect, such savoir faire. Not, mind you, that Crunch was a dolt. He was, to be sure, a country boy, but he had a head on his shoulders, believe you me! Take, for instance, his choice of razor blades. Crunch always shaved with Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades, and if that doesn't show good sense, I am Rex the Wonder Horse. No other blade shaves you so comfortably so often. No other blade brings you such facial felicity, such epidermal elan. Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades take the travail out of shaving, scrap the scrape, negate the nick, peel the pull, oust the ouch. Furthermore, Personnas are available both in double-edge style and in injector style. If you're smart --and I'm sure you are, or how'd you get out of high school --you'll get a pack of Personnas before another sun has set.

But I digress. Crunch, as we have seen, was instantly smitten with Irmgard Champerty. All day he followed her around campus and listened to her talk about Franz Kafka and like that, and then he went back to his dormitory and found this letter from his home town sweetheart Mildred:

Dear Crunch:

Us kids had a keen time yesterday. We went down to the pond and caught some frogs. I caught the most of the body. Then we hitched rides on trucks and did lots of nutsy stuff like that. Well, I must close now because I got to whitewash the fence.

Your friend,
Mildred

PS....I know how to ride backwards on my skateboard.

Well sir, Crunch thought about Mildred and then he thought about Irmgard and then a great sadness fell upon him. Suddenly he knew he had outgrown young, innocent Mildred; his heart now belonged to smart, sophisticated Irmgard.

Being above all things honorable, he returned forthwith to Cut and Shoot, Pa., and looked Mildred straight in the eye and said manfully, "I do not love you any more. I love another. You can hit me in the stomach all your might if you want to."

"That's okay, hey," said Mildred amiably. "I don't love you neither. I found a new boy."

"What is his name?" asked Crunch.

"Franz Kafka," said Mildred.

"I hope you will be very happy," said Crunch and shook Mildred's hand and they have remained good friends to this day. In fact, Crunch and Irmgard often double-date with Franz and Mildred and have barrels of fun. Franz knows how to ride backwards on his skateboard one-legged.

So you see, all's well that ends well--including a shave with Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades and Personna's partner in luxury shaving--Burma-Shave. It comes in menthol or regular; it soaks rings around any o her lather.

Jacks Lose Two, Host FWC Foes

by Gerald Stewart

Attempting to rid themselves of the "free-throw syndrome" which has caused them to have an infamous 1-6 Far Western Conference record, the Jacks have been busy ironing out the wrinkles in their nucleus in attempt to reach victory lane against University of Nevada tonight and Sacramento State Saturday night.

Tip-off for tonight's Far Western Conference encounter is 8:15 p.m. in the men's gym.

Last year's Far Western Conference champions, the University of Nevada Wolfpack, are led by Joe Madigan, who is the league's top board-bouncer.

The quintet from the Capitol City is spearheaded by "superhoopster" Norm Seifkin a transfer from Utah State who has been tearing the nets off opponents' irons at a 20 point clip. Joining Seifkin in the Hornet's awesome attack are Greg Reed, a tenacious board man Mike Syas, one of the league's top rebounders, and Maurie Costa, an efficient playmaker.

Asked to comment on the teams poor showing in Conference play to date, HSC Coach Dick Nicolai said, "The main reason for our losing stems from our inability to convert free-throws at key game situations." However, Nicolai added that the hilltop hoopsters are capable of beating anyone, as indicated by the relatively close scores, to date, on any given night.

As for a starting five for tonight's game, Nicolai is expected to go with Dick Dowling, a prolific popper from San Diego who is in contention for the Far Western Conference scoring title; Steve Dangberg, who does a yeoman's job on defense, Connie Seymour, the club's top rebounder, Ron Peterson, a laudable leaper, and Jim Flint, an able competitor. Expecting to act as "super-subs" are Fred Griffith, Cliff Bainbridge, and Charley Johnson.

Last weekend, large and vocal crowds were in attendance to watch the Lumberjacks lose to Cal State at Hayward, 66-62 and to San Francisco State, 85-69.

In the 66-62 loss to the Pioneers, the quintet from Hayward edged the Jacks at the basketball wire to remain in contention for the Conference Crown. After leading 39-35 at the intermission, the Pioneers began to show their "class" as Dick Drake a prolific pumper from the periphery, got hot and marched his mates to the winning circle.

On Saturday night the hilltoppers were caught in a web of height, which resulted in a 85-69 slacking to the San Francisco State before a standing room only crowd of 1,000.

Mike Paulle, a 6'6" center, and 6'4" Jumpin Joe Galbo spearheaded the height barrage as they brought the Bay City boys from a 37-34 deficit at intermission to a cushion victory as the visitors sent some 52 points pouring through the Lumberjacks net in the second half.

Galbo was high point man for the evening as he cut the strings with 23 points while powerful Paulle contributed 21 points to the victory cake.

Dick Dowling ironed 21 while Dangberg and Seymour added 15 and 13 for the Lumberjack cause.

Lumberjack guard Steve Dangberg (14) tries to penetrate the tenacious Cal State at Hayward defense as teammate Fred Griffith looks on. The Jacks lost, 66-62.
