Same System

Now that the "Erb Era" of athletics at Humboldt has ended, the question that is most frequently asked is: Will there be a drastic change in the football system? The answer as it appears at the present seems to be in the negative.

Herbert L. Hart, who is taking the place of Charles Erb, Jr., is a master of the same system as that of Erb. While Hart was attending Purdue University, Andy Smith was football coach there. For this reason Hart uses the single wing back as did Erb except for two variations. First, Hart uses a single wing back with a flanker, that is his blocking half or right half will play from two yards to as far as possible from his end and yet be on the playing field. Second, Hart uses punt formation quite often. Erb used this variation also but not as frequently.

Award Amendment

This proposed amendment, while it seems complicated, does only three things: First, the personal element is taken out of our award system. The effect of our present system was shown last fall when every member of the football squad received an award. Right or wrong, no other award system that I know of does this. In the second place, this amendment will set up qualifying standards to determine automatically who shall receive awards. This is the only type of system that will be impartial as well as flexible enough to cover extraordinary cases. Finally, this amendment will relieve Mr. Hart, our new Athletic Director, of the final say on the awards next year. A new coach must build up a reputation of fairness, and if he is relieved of the delicate job of saying just who shall receive awards, his job will be that much easier.

Therefore, let's all of you students vote "yes" for this amendment when it comes time.

A New Tradition

Much commendation is due the WAA in general and Eva Mathisen in particular for sponsoring and carrying off with signal success the Steamboat Shuffle last Friday night.

We hope that this event was the foundation of another Humboldt tradition and that the WAA in years to come may see fit to carry it on. Students and faculty both deserve praise for their splendid turnout for the affair.

Humboldt State is lamentably poor in traditions although year by year we are building them up. We have our Senior Ball, Bob Madsen's Work Day, our Barn Dance and the Men's Association picnic. Why not add to this list a yearly cruise sponsored by the WAA?

For it is tradition more than anything else which unites the college into good fellowship and which lingers longest in the memory. Impromptu dances and events may be fun, but they do not carry with them the sound, heart-warming pleasure afforded by the successful yearly achievement of an established tradition.

And surely last Friday night merits a place in the memory of all those attending—the delightful evening, the smooth sailing, the moon, the eclipse, and the young voices raised in the Alma Mater as the trip ended.

Let's go again next year!

CAMPUS COMMENTATOR

Before beginning on the highlights of last week, maybe we should mention a few of those of the week before...which was the annual Choir Trip to points south, with various stops along the way. From all reports the trip was quite an eventful one. While the bus was passing through a little town (Middletown by name) the driver, Melvin Pinkham, asked one of the city's natives if he knew where the high school was; whereupon the afore mentioned native responded to the bewildered driver and hilarious passengers, "Hi-ya, Buck," and with that calmly walked away, leaving the choir bus still perplexed as to the locality of the local high school. From the appearances of wedge-soled sandals, moccasins, hurache sandals, sweaters, beer jackets, "telephone" shirts, and the special shoes that Willie Inskip bought (one with a donation from his sis, Ides, and the other one with the same from "Pee-Wee" Dearing); we sort of gathered that the S. F. stores had quite a run on business. Another incident which occurred that we faithful Humboldters (county) should be strongly incensed at was the experience Bettie McWhorter and Lolly Scholl had while coming down in the elevator of the Hotel Sutter...the elevator boy, during the course of the rather incoherent conversation up and asks our co-eds if we have movies up "there" in Humboldt County? Personally, we think that is just about the pay-off. The home-ward bound automobile conveyance was quite the financially depleted affair—all the choir-ers had to pool their resources in order to obtain any food en route home...Rita Sandlin, we hear, made quite a haul in Ukiah where she asked for a paper napkin, because she wanted to wrap up a sandwich to take with her and didn't want to take a linen one, whereupon the waitress saluted forth with her request, and also a paper bag. Was Rita's face slightly cerised.

As you all know, the main event of last week's calendar was the first, the only one of its kind, the should-be-made-annual affair, the WAA Steamboat Shuffle, aboard the good "S. S. Whoopee Sloop," alias Antelope. The brainstorm to which the credit of having thought up such an original idea was none other than the lady who gets her hand caught in the wringer of the washing machine...right, it was Ole Mathisen; her right hand man was "Chief" Dondero, who created the "Toni" posters. The male officials for the evening were as follows: Captain Norman Grunert, the lad who drives that snazzy Buick phaeton; Bill Zeigler, first mate, the amateur photographer; Jack Pidgeon, second mate, the pride of Buhne's store; Jim Harris, third mate, the future magnate of Standard Oil Inc., and Garff Wilson, the purser, who looked so nautical in his white suit.

On board we noticed quite a few new faces...not really new faces, but faces that we aren't accustomed to seeing together; namely, Helen Albert and Pee Wee Dearing, Bettie McWhorter and Myron Schussman; Lolly Scholl and Bruce Wylie, "Bee" Unsold and "The Lippincot" McGrath.

Dr. Balabanis deserves the medal of honor for trying to stir up a little heat that was lacking; so he hied himself down to the furnace room where he tried to bribe the furnace into giving out a bit more heat. Young Paul, the son of our econ prof., we noticed, had loaned Papa his yachting cap for the evening. We grant that it was handsome gesture to make, but unfortunately, it was just a wee bit too smallish.

The evening was certainly full of thrills for Marian Goss, Dot Watkins, Louis Mahorovich, and Phil Coons. The foursome missed the setting-sail of the Sloop, so they persuaded Phil Patten to row them out to where they might catch it; which he proceeded to do. However when the approached the vessel from the rear, they were slightly splashed by the paddle-wheel of the above mentioned steamer, they got excited, Phil lost an oar, the boat started to leak, and there they were, right in the middle of Humboldt Bay, with only one oar a leaking boat, late at night. However they finally maneuvered the boat back to shore, only to find themselves at the Bayside Mill; sooooo to make a long story short they walked back to the foot of Eureka's F Street where the car was parked...all of them, dripping (and when we say dripping, we don't mean damp) wet. A good time was had by all.

And so we leave you for another week, with a bit of verse, we thought appropriate, found in the May Issue of Reader's Digest...

"What is so rare as an A in June?"

Secret Ambition Of "Pop" Jenkins Is Revealed Here

A great deal has been heard lately about secret ambitions, and after much sleuthing, "Pop" Jenkins' secret ambition has been unearthed.

One of "Pop's" hobbies is gardening. For the past few spring weeks he has been using up all of his spare time of trying to devise a way to avoid pulling weeds.

The other day he revealed that at last he had found a patent method of gardening. By this method after two weeks of hard work, one's gardening problems are over for ever.

"Pop's" secret ambition is to cement over the whole garden, paint it green and add a dandelion here and there to give it a realistic appearance.

There's One BORN Every Minute

He had just come out of his advisor's office. His usually smiling face was serious and thoughtful and he walked slowly down the hall exchanging meaningless banalities with fellow students; but as he exchanged the greetings with friends his mind was thinking of his interview with his advisor.

His advisor had told him that he was behind in his credits and that he had missed classes without excuses. The advisor had also pointed out that he had taken no definite course of study and that after two and a half years of college, he had only completed a few heterogeneous subjects; that he had better choose a course and complete it; and that he had better get his work in and attend his classes.

As he walked along, mulling the words of his advisor, he told himself that he would get in and dig. He felt that he had never given himself a fair trial in his studies. He had never "pitched in and dug," and he had often wondered what the results would be if he did.

As he walked along promising himself a different start, his steps unconsciously led him toward the gym. As he stood on the steps looking over the gym, his glance rested on the athletic field. As his eye followed the practice, his shoulders stiffened, and unconsciously he muttered words of advice and cheer to his teammates. The words of his advisor faded away as he watched his teammates. The pungent aroma of the shower room, the familiar feel of the uniform, the never-old thrill of the game—all these thoughts crowded through his mind.

Casting one hurried look over his shoulders at the school, he turned, and ran down the steps and into the dressing room.

Final Examination Ruling Cited By Administration

Because of demands for early examinations, the administration wishes to call students' attention to the following regulation.

"No final examinations shall be given to individual students before the regular finals. Students who find it necessary to leave school before finals, but near the end of the semester should arrange to take a leave of absence and to receive incompletes in courses in which they are doing passing work.

"No exception shall be made to this rule without the consent of the Scholarship Committee."

Humboldt Coeds In Snake Skin Thrill

Mary Flocchini and Barbara Crnich, members of the Humboldt State Annual Science tour held last week threatened to walk the streets of Sacramento last Saturday night when they discovered a snake skin, and a live lizard in the studio couch of their cabin.

The two were making preparations for the night's rest when among the blankets they discovered the unusual pest. The two ran to call J. Wendell Howe who was in charge of the science tour. Mr. Howe, trapped the lizard in a cracker box. The room was completely ransacked for further pests. None were found, but the thought of having such an unwelcome guest was too much for Barbara Crnich, for she exclaimed, "I won't sleep in there."

Rose Marianne Flowers, another member of the group, offered to exchange places with Barbara. Miss Flowers and Miss Flocchini were undisturbed for the rest of the night.

News About Former Students Received Here

From way up in Rullman, Washington, comes word that Harold Achilles Del Ponte again made the first homer role at Washington State College. A real Humboldtter, Toy Fern, the little general of past Erblets, is working in a drafting office in Berkeley.

Even away back in New York we get word from Art Hammett, a former Humboldtter. Art is a field inspector for a florist company.

And from the Hasting Law School we often hear from "Kep" Goodwin and Harry Falk, but it's just circumstantial correspondence.

Radio Program Heard In Distant Places

From the middle west, Nebraska to be exact, we got word that people are listening to Humboldt's radio broadcast.

In Allen Nebraska, there is a young man who, although he is not a former Humboldtter himself, has a friend at Humboldt and makes it his business to listen to the program. Incidentally, the young man is coach at the Allen High School.

In Omaha we have another listener of our ether ways. This one, a girl, is not a former Humboldtter either, but she also has a friend at Humboldt.

Humboldt State College students who conduct the College Elementary school library are Al Gilman, Virginia Vincent, Viola Stansberry, Mary House, and Violet Susan.

Chemistry Group Enjoy Big Picnic

While Mrs. H. D. MacGinitie acted as chief hamburger cook, Harley Bradley, Waldo Gossard, and Fritz Fleischer played Tarzan swinging from limb to limb of tree after tree when the chemistry 1B class went to Patrick's Point last Thursday May 12.

The group left the college at one o'clock and ate their lunches of hamburgers, salad and coffee at the park. After lunch the picnicers explored all the rocks, nooks, and crannies.

Those who went were Dr. H. D. MacGinitie, associate professor of physical sciences at Humboldt State College, Mrs. H. B. MacGinitie, Gordon MacGinitie, Axel Lindgren, Evelyn Lehrman, Minerva Hill, Fritz Fleischer, Bob Furgeson, Waldo Gossard, Lois Ohman, Helen Hartsook, Helen Taylor, Meredythe Young, Harley Bradley, George Hartman, Bill Crowley, Bill Smith, Bob Mitchell, Dan Oliver, Stewart Foster, Bernie Wright, Euthan Mullins, Harry Russell, Bill Boggess, Philip Peacock, Norman Grunert, George Feldmiller, and Donald Hodgeson.

President Bob Madsen told the students of the

SCIENCE STUDENTS RETURN TO HUMBOLDT STATE AFTER 850 MILE SOUTH JOURNEY

After covering eight hundred and fifty miles, passing through fourteen counties, and crossing one hundred and fifty bridges, a tired, mosquito-bitten group of science students laden with wild flowers, fungi, pine cones, and a good coating of dirt returned to Humboldt Monday morning, May 9, at one a. m.

DEPARTURE

Leaving the college at 9 a. m. Thursday, May 5, the group proceeded to Willow Creek where car no. 2 piloted by Mrs. June "Dean of the Women" Goff had to stop for repairs. The first regular stop was made at Salyer where lunch was eaten and Claude Kistner, a former Humboldt student and teacher of the Salyer grammar school showed the botanists the school's wild flower garden which included many native plants of the locality.

It was off for Weaverville with the sides of the road lined with red bud trees in full bloom. Soon interest centered on the muddy Trinity and the miners who were panning gold along the banks of the river. When the country of the big mines where the mountains are sliced in two and the valley floors are covered with gravel was reached the group halted to watch hydraulic mining operations and to collect wild flowers for classification. Harold "Gold Is Where You Find It" Jenkins stooped to pick a blossom and came up with a five dollar bill.

WEAVERVILLE

Weaverville was reached after just a bit of trouble which included a slow leak in one of the tires on Mr. Graves' car and two over heated motors. A Chinese Joss house with its oriental hangings, its incense, its queer statues and altars, and its prayer papers held the attention of the group for the first quarter of an hour in Weaverville. Trips to Trinity County museum and running up and down the winding staircases provided further amusement.

Then over the mountains to Redding and the first peaks at Mount Shasta and Mount Lassen. The only casualty was a flat tire on car no. 4. Supper and sleep proved to be very popular, although it is said that most of the group managed to view a part of Redding or just Redding's theater.

LASSEN PARK

The trip to Lassen National Park on Friday morning was made with numerous stops to observe the differences in the make up of the forests and the ground coverings from the arid foothills to the snow line. After the group had a romp in the snow and taken numerous snap shots, the trip to Chico was resumed.

At Chico the group visited the Plant Introduction Gardens where many new varieties of plants are under cultivation and where there are also many plants from foreign countries. The attentive student might have seen a Cedar of Lebanon, a hibiscus, and a bottle brush plant.

GUESTS

After dinner and an unsuccessful attempt at a swim, the travelers, by this time weary, met with Omicron Theta Epsilon, one of Chico State's science fraternities, to hear a Chico student present his coming elections for student body officers. The primary elections will be held May 26.

preliminary work in order to gain entrance into Omicron. After this meeting, the Humboldt and Chico students met at an informal party at the home of Dr. Holt, head of the science department at Chico State College.

Saturday morning Humboldt students joined with Chico students for a field trip into Hooker Park to study birds. A swim and a trip to Hooker Oak, the world's largest Oak, completed the morning.

TO CAPITAL

Only one flat tire marred the trip to Sacramento. Saturday night Freddie Jackson and Ernest Sarina went out to see the town and brought home some Soki. But that wasn't the biggest event in the minds of some people. That night after a tour of Sacramento, four young ladies began to make their beds. One young lady pulled out the mattress of the day bed and espied a snake skin. This evoked a shrill shout, but it was removed with the help of a pink paper napkin and the bed making went on. Suddenly Mary "I won't sleep all night" Flocchini saw a lizard, a real live lizard, in her bed. With a shout she was off and away up the row of cabins shouting for Mr. Howe. Said brave man had to put on all of his clothes and hasten to the rescue. Armed with a shoe, he coaxed the wild beast into a mush box while Barbara Crnich shrieked she wouldn't sleep all night and Valerie Barker cringed in the far side of the room. In the end Rosie "Guardian Angel" Flowers had to sleep in the lizard infested bed with Mary, who despite her vows, snored all night.

CAL AGGIES

Sunday included a trip to the University Farm at Davis. Various experiments in plant breeding, the development of disease resisting strains, conservation of water supply, and others were pointed out and explained to the students.

The trip from Davis to Ukiah was made by way of Winters, the Putah Canyon road to Monticello, Rutherford, and St. Helena. After dinner at Willits most of the tired travelers settled down to sleep the rest of the way home.

Meredyth Young Sets

New Archery Record

By sending six consecutive arrows into the bull's eye at a distance of thirty yards, Meredyth Young, freshman student, last week set a new record for women archers at Humboldt.

Miss Young also ran up a score of 290 points in the regular set of arrows.

Over 200 Species Of Wildflowers On Exhibit At Show

Approximately two hundred species of wild flowers, a collection of foreign plants, and a group of conifers were on exhibit at the wild flower show held under the direction of Sigma Epsilon Rho and the Botany 4 class last week.

Many of the specimens were collected during the Sigma Epsilon Rho field trip to the Sacramento valley. Among the plants that were brought back by these students were mountain iris, harvest brodiaea, fritillaria from the eastern slopes of the western mountain ranges, Mariposa lillies from the Sierra Nevada foothills, Diogenes lanterns, mountain flax and red ribbon from Napa county.

Included in the exhibit of foreign plants from a collection of Fred Jackson's was a Peyote cactus from Zacatecas, Mexico. This cactus is used by the Indians of Mexico and the Pacific Southwest as an intoxicant. Another plant in this group was the Sepervivum laggeri or the cob-web houseleek of Switzerland. To the casual observer this plant has the appearance of needing to be dusted off.

The conifer group included specimens of local trees such as yellow, beach, Jeffrey, Monterey, and digger pines, lowland fir, Monterey cypress, canoe cedar, tidal spruce, and redwood.

Many other local flowers, ferns, and shrubs were also shown.

Campfire Dinner Is Well Attended

Nearly 100 people attended the Campfire Dinner held in the Humboldt State College Commons recently.

The dinner was given for all the people interested in the Campfire Girls organization and their work. Mr. Claude Morrow, who is a member of the organization's board, was master of ceremonies. Following dinner, a program was given demonstrating the work done by the Campfire Girls.
