The auditorium was crowded to overflowing the night of the public performance, November 16th.

State Hoopsters To Meet S.O.N.S. In Initial Game

The Humboldt State basketball team will open its inter-collegiate competition against Coach Jean Eberhardt's S.O.N.S. Tuesday and Wednesday nights, December 13 and 14, at the H. S. C. gym.

The S. O. N. S. will put a veteran quintet on the floor and the fans will see a hard fought game. Humboldt will have the same team as last year when they split a two game series with the S. O. N. S. at Ashland.

State will probably schedule a practice game with a local county team before they meet the S.O.N.S.

The probable starting lineup will be Al Biondini, Hank Givins, forwards; Verne Thornton, center; Zeke Saunderson, Lee Seidell guards. Among those who ought to see action are Bill Lee, Curt Wilson, Art McGrath, Don Falk, Jack Cook, Earl Meneweather, Haven Howatt, Amedeo Sandretto, Keith Henderson, Snooky Edsall, Wally Lozensky, Red Belcher, Don Mahan, Preston Connick, and Lee Flink.

Dorm Girl Rescued by Coach

Dorothy Della Valle, freshman student escaped drowning in the ocean near Big Lagoon recently because of the alertness of Walf Ogelesby, assistant coach at Humboldt State and former Lake Michigan life guard.

Miss Della Valle fell while walking near the ocean edge and large waves prevented her from getting up. Ogelesby, realizing the swiftness and power of the waves, ran into the ocean without removing his clothes. Other than being wet and cold neither person suffered from the accident.

The party consisted of the dorm boys and girls and Miss Platt who was their hostess at her cabin at the Lagoon resort.

School Bus For Elementary School

President Arthur S. Gist of Humboldt College today was awaiting the final signature which will authorize motor-bus transportation for pupils to and from the College Elementary School. President Gist has received a special appropriation from the state department of finance for this purpose.

Licensed Humboldt Motor Stages and drivers will be used. The

ANTI-COLD CAMPAIGN

Hygiene students of Humboldt State College are now carrying on a campaign to rid the college of colds. Posters, notices, and newspaper articles are being written up which will come to your attention during the winter. The Lumberjack asks that students pay special attention to all the anti-cold publicity that appears in any form on the campus. Every winter, colds keep many students away from college and cause many others much discomfort and inefficiency in classes. The rules the Hygiene class have set up to avoid this are:

1. Don't cough or sneeze with mouth and nose uncovered.
 2. Stay at home when you have a cold to avoid infecting others and to get well yourself.
 3. Prevent colds by avoiding those who have colds.
 4. Keep up your resistance by proper diet and health habits.
 5. Wear the proper clothes for the temperature you are in.
- Cooperate with the Hygiene class to make Humboldt a healthy college.

The committee suggests the following hints:

1. Keep room temperature at 68 degrees.
2. Avoid drafts and sudden changes of room temperature.
3. Make provision for heat at play rehearsals and choir practices in the evening.
4. Send those who have obvious signs of cold infection to the Health Office.

—H—

GOOD MANNERS IN HEALTH

If people were as particular about their handkerchiefs as their napkins, as particular about sneezing as they are about yawning in polite society, as particular about the hygiene of the month as they are about the correct garment for the party, there would be fewer colds and better health.

SEES FORMER STUDENTS

Marjorie Wing, Humboldt student who attended the California vs. Stanford football game last week-end reported seeing the following Humboldt State students at the game: Lois Ohman, now attending Mills College; Margaret Harris, now attending the University of California; Richard Jarboe and Jimmy Moore also attending the University and Seilo Passo, now attending dental college in San Francisco.

VISITS HOME

THE CAMPUS COMMENTATOR

The Senior Ball, the most elaborate social affair of the school year, will be held Friday night, December 9, in the college gymnasium. The ball will be a formal affair with music furnished by Pedro Elmore's boys. A formal affair at Humboldt does not mean that the fellows must appear in the proverbial "soup and fish," it merely implies that they must wear a tie with the rest of their sartorial get-up.

Elmore's Boys will be sewing it out Dec. 9 at the Senior Ball in the Big Gym. Pedro's Boys are making quite a hit with the jitters on the campus and rumor has it they are going to swing out with a bigger and better orchestra.

Little Ida Ivancich's theme song seems to be "The Baker Boy for Me." Are you going to bring Handsome Henry to the Senior Ball Ida?

It would have been much more romantic had Walf Oglesby rescued Jayn Harville from a watery grave instead of Dorothy D. V. Or could it be as some campus wit said, "It will be better if some one rescues Walf from Jaynie." Ho-hum!

The reason for the increase of women eaters in the commons is an obvious one. Big Nick is in back of the cash register and is giving out the famous Barbieri line.

Our vote for the steadiest couple is Marjorie Wing and Skip Seidell. The old stand-by Shirley Davis and Red Wirts seem to have parted their ways.

Is Mary Handshy of the Watsonville Handshys engaged to an up and coming Eureka business man or isn't she? Several males would like to know definitely.

VISITING HUMBOLDT

Margaret Harris, former Humboldt State student now attending the University of California, was home over the Thanksgiving holidays. She visited school Wednesday. Jean Cooper, also a former Humboldt student now attending a dental nursing school in San Francisco, was at her home in Eureka for the holidays.

French Pupils Are Segregated According To Future Vocation

Students in Miss Adella Johnson's beginning French class at Humboldt State have learned that French schools differ from American schools in a number of ways.

A difference that impresses the class particularly is the segregation in the French schools of secondary pupils according to the profession or trade they wish to enter. Up to the age of twelve or fifteen, the pupils all go to the same type of primary school, although boys, and girls at separate schools. Instruction at this stage is free.

After completing the primary school, pupils wishing to enter a profession go to the "lycees", or colleges, where they prepare to enter the universities. The others enter an industrial school, learn a trade in a factory, or begin an apprenticeship in a business house.

The completion of the course in a lycee is about the same as the completion of junior college work in America. After a student has finished the work in the lycee, he has to pass a difficult examination to receive his bachelor's degree, without which he cannot enter a university. This baccalaureate examination is really a competitive examination, since only about one-third of the candidates receive the bachelor's degree. If a student does not pass the first time, he may return to the lycee for more work and take the examination again.

It is difficult for Americans to understand the importance attached to the baccalaureate examination in France. Miss Johnson was attending the University of Paris one summer while this examination was being given there. She said that every noon the corridors were filled with anxious relatives and friends of the candidates, awaiting news of the result. Students also go to church to pray, she said, before the examination, and evidence of this is to be found in the old church of St. Genevieve in Paris. The walls of this church are lined with thousands of little plaques with inscriptions such as this: "I pray to the virgin for success in my examination. She heard my prayer." The inscriptions are followed by the student's name and the date.

The segregation of students in the secondary schools and the difficulty of the baccalaureate examination account for the intensive type of instruction given in the lycees. Students work hard and have little time for anything except their studies.

DEMONSTRATION IS GIVEN BY GIRLS

An excellent example of integration was in the form of a luncheon given by the fifth grade girls recently in their classroom. They had completed a unit on foods and in home economics they learned to set a table correctly and to serve and follow a simple recipe. In summarizing these experiences, they planned cooked and served a lunch in the social unit at the college. Those invited were Dr. Vernon O. Tolle, Mrs. Estelle Koch, Miss Belle Dickson and their teachers, Miss Delia Pozzi, Miss Frances Paulson, and Mrs. Ellen Walter, their instructor in home economics.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL PREPARES FOR XMAS

Christmas work has begun at the College Elementary school. In the primary grades Christmas pictures are on display. Fourth graders are interested in learning how Christmas is celebrated in other lands, and the fifth grade is making a study of Christmas in the colonial days. The sixth and seventh grades are studying Christmas and music while the eighth grade has selected for its study "Christmas as a theme in literature".

The entire school will take part in their Christmas play Thursday morning at 10:30, December 22nd.

Commentator Picks Lumberjacks For Most Successful Season

This columnist sticks his neck out when he says that Humboldt will win the majority of its college basketball games. The team a veteran one and has every thing to make it click, speed, cleverness, durability and brains.

Humboldt is playing a heavy schedule with colleges this year compared to the past seasons. The Lumberjacks will meet Southern Oregon Normal, Chico State, S. F. State, San Jose, and a tentative trip into Oregon where they will play three games. Also they are going to enter the State College tournament in San Jose Dec. 27, 28, 29, in which all State Colleges are going to participate in an elimination tournament sponsored by San Jose.

Francis "Hank" Givins is chosen by the commentator to be Humboldt's leading scorer again this year. Hank knows all the angles of basketball being a star for four years in high school and three years at Humboldt. Hank started as a guard in his freshman year at college but was switched to forward in his sophomore and has been the Lumberjacks' standout offensive player. We predict a great season for Hank Givins.

State's squad boasts that they have the tallest and shortest men in school on their roster. Bill Inskip is the tallest male at H.S.C. standing a shade over 6 foot 5 in., and Zeke Saunderson standing approximately 5 ft. 4 in. Inskip, a senior, is out for the squad for the first time, while Zeke has been on the first string for the past two years.

Al Biondini is the only sophomore on the starting lineup and it appears that he will continue to be on the starting lineup as witness his fine all-round play in the practices. Al is a former Ferndale boy and he stepped into a first string berth in his freshman year as forward. His greatest game was the night he scored 21 points against the San Jose Spartans in the first game of the series. Humboldt lost but it was no fault of the brilliant play of Al "Hack" Biondini. Hack has only one fault and that is no headedness. Otherwise Hack is a good as they come.

Hank Givins is the only portersider on the hoop squad. Hank has been the high scorer on the Humboldt quintet for the last three years.

Skip Seidell has been playing varsity basketball for three years and this season finds him at his old position as guard. Skip came from Arcata high where he was a center, but he was changed to a guard at Humboldt and has held down a first string berth ever since. Skip is the Lumberjacks' steadiest and surest guard and is a deadeye shot from any position on the floor.

The Lumberjacks have scheduled a practice game and the starting line-up will probably have Hank Givins, Al Biondini, forwards; Verne Thorton, center; Zeke Saunderson, Skip Seidell, guards.

Al Biondini is the only sophomore on the starting line-up, Zeke and Verne are juniors while Hank and Skip are seniors. They will give Coach Hart a good nucleus to work on next season.

The cast of "The Night of January 16th" was served coffee and cakes in the make-up room after the public performance by Mrs. Horace Walter, head of the Home Economics department, and June McCombs and Charlene Renfroe, residents of the dormitory.

Dr. Balabanis Compares Jews To Greeks In His New Book

The plight of the persecuted and dispossessed Jews in Germany is not unlike that of the Greeks who were thrown out of Asia Minor in 1923, according to Dr. Homer P. Balabanis who describes the Asia Minor catastrophe in his forthcoming book, "Travel Sketches of Europe." The book will appear next week.

In both cases the dispossessed elements had lived in their respective lands for centuries and were among wealthier commercial and professional classes. Also in both instances the ostensible reasons for their persecution were racial and religious. Yet underlying these causes was the economic competition which both Jews and Greeks were engaged in against the dominant forces in government.

There is, however, a real difference between the fate of the Greeks and that of the Jews. The former had a national home where they went after they were expelled from Asia Minor by the Turks. About a million and a half refugees landed in Greece in 1923. In time, and at great human and material sacrifice, the newcomers were settled and to-day they constitute an important economic and political element in the Greek nation. Characteristically, the American people, showed keen and sympathetic interest on behalf of the oppressed then as now. In 1923 they organized the Near East Relief Committee that rendered invaluable assistance toward the settlement of the Greek refugees.

Unlike the Greek, "the wandering Jew," having no national home, can neither stay in Germany nor emigrate. According to Dr. Balabanis, the peoples of Europe are so intermixed that there is no country without a minority population. The problem cannot be solved, however, by deporting or exchanging populations as that would affect tens of millions. There is only one solution which the democracies offer: equality of treatment of all peoples within a national boundary. Peace within a nation and among nations can be established on no other basis according to Dr. Balabanis.

Former Editor On News Staff

Hope Dondero, last year's editor of the Humboldt Lumberjack, visited with her parents in Eureka over the Thanksgiving holidays. Miss Dondero is now attending the University of Oregon at Eugene where she is majoring in journalism.

Miss Dondero is a member of the news staff on the daily Oregon Emerald, which is the college newspaper. The paper took first honors last year in the national collegiate newspaper contest. She has a front page column containing the highlights taken from the exchanges.

According to the former Lumberjack editor over three hundred applied for positions on the college paper and it was only because of her experience at Humboldt being recognized by those connected with the paper that she became a staff member. The Emerald has many large offices and is a complete news plant.

Miss Dondero lives at a cooperative house where the girls do the work with the house mother in charge. Between twenty and twenty-five girls room and board cooperatively in this house at a cost of about twenty dollars per month.

She stated she enjoyed receiving her Lumberjack and hoped that she would be able to renew her acquaintances at Humboldt during the Christmas holidays.
