Easter Week Trip To Death Valley For Science Club

Definite plans are being formulated by members of the Humboldt State Science Club for an Easter Week trip to Death Valley. Departing at five o'clock on March 17, the group of eighteen students will visit Lake Tahoe via Sacramento Valley. The return trip will be made by way of San Francisco and the Redwood Highway. The approximate cost per person is ten dollars.

The field trip has a definite objective: that of gaining data and information on wild flowers, geological formations, and all other similar subjects. Each of the four private cars which will make the trip will be assigned a definite subject or topic upon which it must concentrate and obtain information. Upon returning home all the information obtained will be compiled and indexed, and a flower show will be held.

Three new regular members were voted into the club: Charles Pezzotti, Charles Arnold, and Warren Posley. Associate members accepted were Beverly Bullock, Frances Larsen, Susan Wilson, Laila Still, Mary Eads, and Zutie Businello and Frances Nye.

Committees appointed included food, Merlyn Allen, Charles Arnold; itinerary and transportation, Dr. William Lanphere, Warren Haughey, Henry Mohr; itinerary, luggage, Bette Cairns, Virginia Vincent, Beryl McCann, Warren Haughey, and Frances Larsen; financial secretary, Betty Jackson.

Any member of the science club or an associate member will be privileged to go on the field trip, and arrangements should be made with Bette Cairns immediately.

PENNANTS SENT

Graduate Manager Bob Madison has sent several Humboldt State pennants to the Carolina Teacher's College at Greenville, North Carolina, to represent Humboldt in a display of teacher training institutions of the Nation. The event will be centennial celebration for teacher training in the United States.

DR. JOHN N. CHAIN TO TALK AT ASSEMBLY

Dr. John N. Chain, well-known Eureka physician, will speak before a college assembly next Tuesday at eleven o'clock. He will talk on the people and the life of the countries through which he and Mrs. Chain traveled during an extensive motor tour about a year ago. Those who have heard Dr. Chain talk about his experiences and observations know that he has a great deal that is of interest to offer.

The program will include also musical numbers. This assembly is presented by the Social Science department as one of a series of assemblies sponsored by the faculty.

Workshop Crew Labor For Weeks

For weeks the dramatic workshop class under the direction of John Van Duzer has been working on the sets for "Brother Rat." It was necessary to construct three separate sets for the play. Each of these was designed by Van Duzer.

Members of the class who have been working until the final moment of curtain time are Richard Jarboe, Lois Henderson, Ida May Inskip, Charles Glenn, Robert Lawrence, Eleanor Buck, Helen Hartsook, Robert Goss, Jack Lawyer, Casper Torp, Shealdon Reanne, and Angelo Manfreda.

Sherman Washburn has been working with Van Duzer on the lighting affects.

Hatchery Receives Silver Salmon Eggs

10,040 silver salmon or oncorhynchus kisutch eggs were brought to the Humboldt State fishery which is being supervised by Mrs. Hortense Lanphere. A. F. Pollitt, forman of the Prairie Creek Hatchery, brought the eggs down Saturday morning in a large milk can. He stayed to supervise their being placed in the recently installed troughs.

By Sunday morning there were sixteen casualties, probably resulting from the jarring the ride down had given them. The eggs are now in the eyed stage, and tiny pale fish can be seen as well as the bright eyes.

According to Mrs. Lanphere this species of fish is the prettiest of the salmon. The eggs received here are extraordinarily large.

Since the eggs were spawned in January they will probably hatch in March. At present an abundant water supply is assured.

STUDENT IN OREGON

John Farleigh, freshman student at Humboldt State last semester is now living with his grandmother near Grants Pass, Oregon. Farleigh expects to enter Oregon State College at Corvallis in September to continue his work in forestry. He is specializing in logging engineering.

Two boxes of Fox Blox from Pasadena were received recently by the kindergarten department of the College Elementary School.

"Nelson Hall" Is Approved As Name For Dorm

"Nelson Hall" has been officially approved as the name for Humboldt State's new dormitory according to a letter recently received by President Arthur S. Gist. Some time ago the Humboldt State College Improvement Association wrote to the State Board of Education for an official approval of the name which had been proposed to honor the memory of the late Hans Nelson.

Hans Nelson first introduced the measure in the Legislature providing for the establishment of Humboldt State College. He continually worked to improve conditions at Humboldt and to promote greater interest in the college.

Concrete has been poured this week for the second floor of "Nelson Hall." Rainy weather is not preventing construction work.

Production Staff Behind The Scenes

ELINOR BUCK

Elinor Buck and Edith Davis are in charge of the make-up for both performances of "Brother Rat." H. Woodcock is acting as property-costume manager as well as script reader. Glenn Goble is taking care of the sound effects for the play.

Special music will be played between the acts by an orchestra directed by Carl Owen. Members of the orchestra are Maxine Maxwell or Wallace Look, piano; La Verne Elmore Saxophone; Warren Elmore, trumpet; Marianne Lambert, violin; Charles Arnold, bass; and Carl Owen, drums.

CLASS MAKES TOUR

Harold Jenkins took his first grade class on an excursion to the railroad station in Eureka last week. Miss Ruth E. Bestor, Jean Schussman, and Harold Jenkins took the group to Eureka in private cars.

Marjorie Cropley is substituting for Clarion Moxon, Humboldt '38 the teacher at Glendale School while Miss Moxon is confined to Trinity Hospital.

COFFEE TO BE SERVED AT PLAY PERFORMANCE

Those people attending the public performance of "Brother Rat" tonight will be served coffee between the second and third acts. Girls pouring will be Lois Henderson and Ida Mae Inskip. The refreshments are being prepared under the supervision of Miss Sue Goldschmidt of the Commons.

Usherettes for tonight's performance are Ida Mae Inskip, Lois Henderson, Jean Hood, Marguerite Lawrence, Edith Davis and Marian Swap.

Two Tie For First In Amateur Hour

Muriel Yaley and Warren Elmore tied for first place at the "amateur-hour" program held following the dinner given last Friday by the Mu Epsilon Psi, Music Club of Humboldt State, of which Miss Helen Garvin is sponsor. Miss Yaley played "Flight of the Bumblebee" on the clarinet, and Miss Elmore sang "Stardust." Each received a box of candy.

This "amateur hour" was conducted like the amateur hour of Major Bowes. Each contestant was announced before the audience and imitation microphone by Richard Jarboe, master of ceremonies; the "gong" was included, and the winners were chosen by the amount of applause from the audience.

The other contestants were as follows:

"Mountaineer Band"; Helen Arnold, Myrtle Boehne, Frances Ensign, Marianne Lambert, and Beryl McCann.

Tamboritz duet; Barbara Crnich and Oriel Posic.

Piano solos: Carol Hannah, Virginia Hill, and Marjorie Smith.

Vocal duet: Helen Arnold and Jean Schussman.

Vocal trio: La Verne Elmore, Warren Elmore and Karen Wester.

Vocal solos: Sue Dee Penturf, Allan Lowry, Carolyn Crane, Dolores Scholl, Jean Schussman.

Accompainists were Miss Helen Garvin, Marthabel Scott, Helen Arnold, Ida Mae Inskip, and Walter Carr.

A play, entitled, "Romeo and Juliet," an exaggerated pantomime was given by the following cast in which women took men's parts and men took women's parts. Hazel Hagne as "Brutus," Robert Pinches, "Marie"; Kenneth Samuelson, "Juliet"; Marthabel Scott, "Romeo"; Sue Dee Penturf and Allan Lowry, "time and curtain"; Dorothy Fountain, "sun"; Ida May Inskip, "moon"; and Richard Jarboe, reader.

Dolores Scholl received the "gong" prize, which was a bag of lollypops. Miss Scholl sang, "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" in which she mimicked a primadonna.

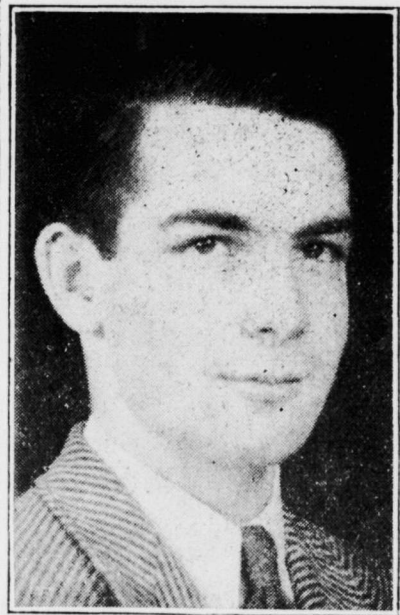

GO TO SKI HUT

Seven college men went to the Lumberjack ski hut Wednesday afternoon after school and stayed all night. They were Leland Domeyer, Eugene German, Fred Jackson, Robert Frakes, Robert Bryan, James Savage, and Ted Speiers.

College Players Add Another Hit To Their Credit

Laughter will play the leading role tonight at 8 o'clock when "Brother Rat" under the direction of William Hoppe is presented for the public. The college audience of last night is today still chuckling over the hair-brained ideas of Charley Davis as "Billy Randolph," the cunning of Emory Sitts as "Mistol Bottom," or the awkward embarrassment of Bill Inskip as "Bing Edwards."

No matter what type of role Inskip takes in a play the general comment is, "They couldn't have chosen a better man for the part. He acts like a natural." Bill does his best in the scenes in which he is worrying about Kate or "the baby."

CHARLES DAVIS

By adding his bits of typical humor Charley Davis makes "Billy Randolph" the hit of the show. His vivacity and youthful exuberance win for him the hearts and the chuckles of the audience. What he lacks in artistry he makes up for in naturalness. Cap Torp is the third of the "naturals" who is to be commended for the ease with which he handles his role.

The most polished performance of the female characterizations is given by Martha Bell Scott. Her distinct enunciation and her change in moods have a certain professional touch one feels but cannot explain. Honors for the

ANNUAL BIG GAME SCHEDULED FEB. 29

The Varsity and Jayvee basketball teams will tangle in the annual "big game" Thursday, February 29 at four o'clock in the big gymnasium. President Arthur S. Gist has given his permission to dismiss all four o'clock classes in order that the students may attend the game.

Although the Varsity men have had more experience the Jayvees are a fast-breaking team and will be seeking revenge for their defeat at the hands of the Varsity team last year.

Probable starting line-ups:

Longholm	F I. Olsen

Teachers Attend Speech Meeting

Representatives of Humboldt State College and the College Elementary School attended a meeting of the California Elementary School Principals Association in Ferndale on February 15. The subject of the meeting was "Corrective Speech Work."

The morning program consisted of demonstrations of articulation defects and nervous disorders of speech by Florence MacKinnon of the Eureka City Schools. In the afternoon, Mrs. Mabel Gifford, Chief of the State Department of Education, spoke on "Speech Correction and Its Place in the Schools." A general discussion followed.

Those attending from the college and the elementary school were Dr. Vernon O. Tolle, Ruth E. Bestor, Henry T. Cluxton, Dorothy E. Williams, and William E. Hoppe.

"JITTER-BUGGING HITS THE FACULTY"

Those at the Mutsuhito after-game dance Saturday night at the college gymnasium saw Dr. Homer Balabanis and Mrs. Monica Hadley, dean of women, "swing out" and "jitterbug."

Dr. Balabanis and his dancing partner went through a repertoire of intricate routines that astounded instructors and students no little. Pirouetting and whirling, Balabanis was complete master of the situation at all times.

After displaying his terpsichorean tactics, he took his companion in hand and retired from the floor, beaming broadly and with just a faint suggestion of a swagger.

Have you ever had a fish in an egg to you? Hortense Lanphere claims he oncorhynchus kisutch do. We're really not disputing her word, but.....

Probably most of us have forgotten the tumbles we took at the Snow Carnival, but has Bev. Bullock? Looking as though she were having the best time of anyone there, she now looks like the one and only "mighty mass of bruises."

Every noon the same group are dancing to the tunes of the nickel-odion in the Commons—Olive Coolen, Bev and Jean Bendorf, Chris Peterson, Marg Waters, Helen Newell, Len Longholm, Maurice Ayala, Edgar Jones, Leon Flink.

'Tis said "It's not what you do but the way that you do it." By the way have you heard Muriel Yaley play "The Flight of the Bumble Bee" on her clarinet? From what the music clubbers say she ought to appear on a student body program. How about it?

Too bad we all couldn't have seen Lolly Scholl's impersonation of a prima donna singing, "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life!" 'Tis said, "She had 'em rolling in the aisles." Note: Lolly received the bobby-prize, a bag of lollipops.

Glenn Goble the Elusive. At Friday nights' game he spent part of the evening upstairs by a certain dark-haired miss, then came down into the gym to stand in a corner quite aloof-like, and finally disappeared completely.

Less Training Is Required In Related Fields of Dentistry Work

Last week, the profession of dentistry was discussed with emphasis upon the general practitioner. There are of course, specialized branches of dentistry such as orthodontia, pedodontia (work with children exclusively), X-ray specialists, and other branches of dental work. There are also related fields into which young men and women may go which require less training yet offer opportunities for service in the public health field.

The dental technician does the laboratory work for practicing dentists, including such routine procedures as casting of inlays and plate work according to specifications received from the dentists themselves. He may be a graduate dentist who prefers laboratory work to actual practice. More often, he has completed a forty-two weeks course in a dental college planned to train laboratory specialists. Salaries range from $25.00 per week for the beginner to $50.00 per week for the experienced and successful workman. This is a field of dentistry into which many women are entering.

Most women attracted to this profession, however, choose to become dental hygienists, who engage in the preventive dental work conducted by public schools, boards of health, and other agencies interested in building up public health. The dental hygienist works always under the direction of a licensed dentist, and must herself have passed a state examination to prove her qualifications. She secures her training by completing a prescribed course of training one or two years in length, in such fields of study as anatomy, bacteriology, dental pathology, histology, physiology, and preventive dentistry. Eleven dental colleges in the United States offer such courses. Her salary ranges from $35.00 to $75.00 weekly. Her work brings rich satisfaction, contributing as it does to the present and future health of her clients.

There are also dental assistants whose duties, training, and salaries are not as yet well standardized. At the top of the list, with secretarial training are college graduates who have taken special courses at dental college, and are able to mix cements, synthetics, alloys, pour models, cast inlays, and polish them.

They must also have training in bookkeeping, filing, and typewriting. Their duties include collection of bills, making of appointments, and other non-professional duties that arise in connection with a dental office. Their salaries average $40 to $50 per week, but may run in large cities as high as $75.00 or $80.00.

At the other extreme is the dental assistant who is really only an office girl. She arranges appointments, keeps the records, and renders other assistance on non-technical character. Her salary may range from $6.00 per week to $25.00. If she is alert, however, she may learn much and improve her status while she works.

There is a "Dental Nurses Training School" in San Francisco which offers a four-months course of intensive training to a limited number of young women. This is one of a number of such schools in the United States where enrollees are taught the duties of a receptionist, the importance of good housekeeping to keep the office in perfect order at all times, technical studies such as dental anatomy, mixing amalgam and porcelain, casting inlays, sterilization of instruments, taking of X-rays and the development of the films. This is a new field for women which offers considerable opportunity for expansion during the next decade.

In any field where one is called upon to meet people and to handle work of a technical nature, the young person with a sound general education has a great advantage over his competitors whose background is less thorough. College courses in chemistry, biology, physiology, anatomy, micro-technique, and other sciences; economics, foods and nutrition, accounting, secretarial training, psychology, English, speech and voice work and other fields all contribute to future success in these fields of endeavor. Poise acquired through participation in Hostess Training class activities or through extra-curricular campus activities is an invaluable asset to the young woman who looks forward toward a career in any of these fields.

If you are interested further consult the "Career" monograph in the library, or Mrs. Walter or Dr. Lanphere, who serve as advisers for pre-nurses and dentists.

Approximately 100 Humboldt Splits Visit Ski Lodge Two Game Series

The College Skii Club held open house at their skii hut on Grouse Mountain all day Thursday. Approximately 100 people visited the hut according to one club member. The visitors brought their own sandwiches, and the ski club served coffee.

H. S. C. snow enthusiasts both skid and tobogganed. Carl Owen had a sled, and Henry Trione and Glenn Goble had a toboggan.

The Humboldt Motor Stages ran a bus driven by Carl Owen which carried eighteen passengers to Grouse Mountain for the snow frolic.

smoothest male performance go to Richard Jarboe.

Rather than Vivian Larsen fitting the role of "Joyce Minfree," the role fits her—a popular, charming young woman who knows how to handle even the most persistent kaydet with ease. It's been some time since a Humboldt audience has had the pleasure of seeing Miss Larsen, and it is a pleasure.

Sadie Crnich does a praiseworthy job on the likeable but NICE "Claire Ramm." As the play progresses Sadie's performance becomes progressively better. Although Karen Wester as "Kate Rice" is seen only a short while on the stage, that moment of acting keeps her in the minds of the audience throughout the remainder of the play.

Bill Madsen, in playing the minor lead of "A Furman Townsend, Jr." steals every scene in which he appears. He succeeds in getting his character over to the audience even better than the more experienced actors. His acting of last night should guarantee him a lead in plays to come.

The part of the negress, played by Lelaire Locke is a difficult role well handled. Other players showing up well are Emory Sijts, George Brenner, William Beer, Dan McClure, Bud Villa, and James Rasella.

Community Car Now Up For Sale

Henry Trione was catching up on his correspondence one night recently. After laboriously filling in a penny postcard, he got into the Ford to take the card to the postoffice. The car refused to start; so he tried to push it out of the garage and out on the hill. Trione apparently turned the wheel the wrong way. Instead of pushing the car into the street, he pushed it into the flower bed which lies between the porch and the house. Since it was more than he could do to extricate it himself, he summoned Glenn Goble and Ivan Olson from warm beds to his aid.

The neighbors, now thoroughly awakened, were very helpful in offering suggestions and the boys wish to thank them.

But like Ferdinand, the car was not willing to leave the flowers and could only be persuaded with the help of a borrowed car.

Trione then put the Ford back in the garage and used the borrowed car to mail the penny-postcard.

Chanted Appeals To The Gods Form Verse Choir Beginnings

Although a verse choir was organized for the first time this year at Humboldt State, choric speaking is not a new art. It is similar to the chorus in the old Greek drama. However, it is even older than that. Almost every religion it is said, appeals to the gods have been chanted. Choric speaking carried over into the Middle Ages. The minstrels of medieval England sang ballads and their listeners chanted the choruses. Even college yells from a rooting section may be classed as choric speaking.

Choric speaking in colleges was stimulated when Professor Gilbert Murray of Oxford published his first translation of Euripides, the Greek dramatic artist. At the Glasgow Musical Festival in 1922, Marjorie Gullan, a speech teacher, presented a group of trained voices who spoke several episodes from Greek drama.

Upon hearing them, John Masefield, the British poet laureate, suggested to Miss Gullan that such voices heard together might create a new type of beauty.

The next year, 1923, Miss Gullan introduced the first verse choir at the Glasgow Musical Festival. It has now advanced to the point where whole dramas are being written for this medium of expression. One of the best known dramas for verse choirs is "Culbin Sands," by Gordon Bottomley.

In 1936 Miss Gullan visited the United States establishing verse choirs. Since then, their popularity has increased and there are now many verse choirs in the United States.

The verse choir class introduced this semester at Humboldt State by Mrs. E. M. Folsom, of the English department, is a one unit course. Class is held on Tuesdays at 8 o'clock in Room 200. There are now eighteen members in the choir.

Music Hath Charm To Tune of $30

Music hath charm—but music is also earning a good living for Humboldt State students. Sunday evening two of these students, Rod Belcher and Bill Beer cashed in on their musical knowledge at the Eureka Theatre. Belcher, called on first, named five songs and walked off the stage with thirty dollars. There would have been some disillusioned students if he hadn't won. Beer unfortunately followed Belcher, and although he also named five songs there were only twenty-two dollars left in the Musical Kitty, but he took the money without a murmur of complaint.

Two weeks previous another Humboldt Student, Francis Givins, won thirty dollars, and last week Earl Meneweather won a few dollars. Humboldt students who will be called on the stage in the future certainly have a reputation to live up to. Just remember, it really pays to be up in your music at Humboldt State.

'The Star-Gazer' Life of Galileo

"The Star-Gazer," by a new Hungarian writer, Zsolt de Harsanyi, is a novel of the life of Galileo Galilee.

Contemplating suicide because of his father's insistence that he take up medicine, Galileo began to wonder what would happen to his drowned body, and to set to work to figure it out. In this manner his scientific interest was aroused, and forgetting his suicide intentions, he set to work as an inventor and scientist.

Galileo's entire life, domestic, political, amorous, and spiritual, is taken up in this book.
