COACH ANNOUNCES HOOP SCHEDULE

Karshner Resumes Speech Training

DON KARSHNER

Don Karshner, one of Humboldt's former instructors, has returned from his service in the Navy's Seabees, and will once again resume his position at Humboldt State College.

Mr. Karshner left Humboldt in the Fall of 1943 and entered the Seabees. He found himself located at Camp Peary, Virginia, where he studied malaria control work. After studying this subject he did instructing work at Camp Peary. He went overseas in the Fall of 1944 and became Educational Services Director of his battalion. With the aid of several men, who had either had previous experience teaching or had teaching abilities, he organized a school for the men. Everything from typing and speech to Deisel engineering was taught. He was overseas until December of 1945. He is now home in Arcata and will resume his work at Humboldt next semester.

EXPANSION NEAR

Mr. Karshner plans to continue in the presentation of student shows and will begin work on a production next year. Two plays a year will also be presented, plus various one-act plays.

With Mr. Karshner's return, more courses will be offered in the speech dept.

Prexy Names New Secretary

Elizabeth F. Brizard, took on the duties as secretary to President Gist last week. Miss Sarah Davies, former secretary, left to continue her graduate work at Stanford University.

Mrs. Brizard has been assistant to Mrs. McKittrick in the registrar's office. Her place has been filled by Mrs. Evelyn Plunkett from U.C.L.A.

Balabanis Enters S. F. Hospital

Dr. Homer P. Balabanis, professor of Economics at Humboldt State College and also Vice-president of the college, left for San Francisco on Wednesday morning, January 2, 1946, for an operation on his hand.

Last summer, Dr. Balabanis, injured his hand in such a way as to leave one finger paralyzed. The operation was supposedly held on Thursday morning, January 3 in one of the San Francisco hospitals. Dr. Balabanis plans to be back at Humboldt teaching his classes next semester.

Humboldt Tops Goal In Bonds

Frances Oldridge, president of the Associated Students, announces that the two thousand dollar goal in the sale of war bonds has not only been met . . . but topped!

A grand total of $3,500 has been raised in the sale of war bonds by Humboldt State College students. Those selling bonds were Barbara Reynolds, Doris McCann, Mary Dolf, Melba Jo Turner, Marge Puckett, Helen Ribiero, Barbara Hodge, and Francis Oldridge.

Large Enrollment For Spring Term

Mrs. McKittrick has announced that a larger enrollment is in sight for next semester. Over seventy students have registered, and will compose the "1st semester" Frosh class.

Many more have registered for the spring terms, and it looks as though Humboldt will be "filled to the brim."

New "Lumberjack" Staff For Spring

Don Ray, Editor of the Lumberjack, has announced that there will be a slight change of staff for the Spring semester.

He will remain as Editor; Anne Murphy will be Assistant Editor; and Frances Brizard will continue her work as Business Manager.

Music Recital For Spring Term

CHARLES FULKERSON

Under the direction of Charles Fulkerson, the highlight of the spring musical activities will be the performance of "I Hear America Singing," a cantata composed by George Kleinsinger, and based on the poems of Walt Whitman. The college chorus, choir, and orchestra will be combined in the presentation of this work.

Also on the calendar is a recital of cello and duo-piano music. Early Spring is the probable date for this. Jean Fulkerson, Hazel Jeffers, and Charles Fulkerson will play a program of music ranging from Handel to Guion.

"Oklahoma" At S. F. In February

"Oklahoma," a musical production is soon to be presented in San Francisco. Sale of tickets has not begun as yet, but will be advertised when begun.

Other plays coming to San Francisco in the near future are: "Harvey," with Joe E. Brown, January 8; "Voice of the Turtle," in March; and Talulla Bankhead will bring a show and present it beginning January 14.

Others on the staff will be: Charlie Peterson, Men's Sports; Anna Babler, Women's Sports; Betty Tupper, Exchange Editor; and Mary Meyer, Circulation Manager.

Wednesday, Feb. 28—

College vs. Ferndale, here.

New Assistant For Registrar

Mrs. Evelyn Plunkett, former registrar at U.C.L.A., is now working in the registrars office of Humboldt State College. She is taking the place of Mrs. Brizard, who is now secretary to President Gist.

Mrs. Plunkett comes to us direct from U.C.L.A., where she not only worked in the registrar's office, but also attended courses. Mrs. Plunkett is residing at her farm in Bayside with her husband. She states that she likes Humboldt State College, and is especially pleased with the beautiful country hereabouts.

Semper Virens Goes To Press

Loris Baumgartner, co-editor of the Semper Virens, has announced that the dummy for the Humboldt State year book has been completed. It was sent to the Times office, Eureka, shortly before Christmas vacation, and will be forwarded to a printing firm in San Francisco.

Laverle Morley and Loris Baumgartner, co-editors, expect a reply from San Francisco immediately. Members of the staff think that, by all appearances, the Semper Virens will be a fine publication, when issued in May.

Sports Party For W. A. A.

The bi-annual sports party, sponsored by the W.A.A., will be held January 16, at four o'clock in the social unit. Featured as guests will be the victorious upperclass hockey team, and the volley ball champions. All losers will supply the food and entertainment and will emphasize the food angle.

Every sports-minded girl is welcomed to the gathering. Fun and food for all.

FINAL EXAMS BEGIN JAN. 19

Final examinations for the Fall semester will begin on Saturday, January 19, and will cover a four-day period through Wednesday, January 23. The schedule for the examinations will soon be posted on the bulletin board. Watch for them!

The Night Before

'Twas the night before finals—
Alas and alack!
Pass the aspirin and coffee;
Make it two and very black,
Why bite your nails?
Just be calm and steady,
Fingernails? I'm up
To the elbows already.

Open the texts; is that English late?

Where'd I put the Zoo?
Which class is at eight?
Louis the fourteenth,
With an octagonal sphere,
Dissect the mitosis,
while hunting king Lear.

Who borrowed my trig?
Did I cut once or twice?
I've lost that last drawing,
Study aint my chief vice.
Notes, diagrams, books,
Prose and verses . . .
It's no use; cramming
just makes it worse.

But the mystery is,
Though I hunt high and low,
How the profs can still ask
The ones I don't know.

ABOUT BOOKS

At the beginning of every semester there seems to be much confusion in the purchasing of books. Books cost money! and many students, who are less fortunate in a financial way, are not able to pay high prices for their textbooks. I am speaking of our returned veterans in particular.

As a Frosh, I know that my greatest difficulty during the registration period was the acquiring of my textbooks. I found this situation to be true of many other students too. Every semester, many students are turned away from the Co-Op with the oh-so-familiar expression: "Sorry, haven't any of those books left." or, "They won't be in for a long time yet." In a case like this, there is only one possible alternative for the student to choose, buy second-hand books from other students.

Many students want to sell their books when they have finished using them, and many students want to buy second-hand books. Why doesn't our co-op MANAGER install a second-hand book counter which specializes in the sale of used books. Students could leave their books in the co-op when they cease to need them; co-op workers could, in turn, sell the books to those who want second-hand books, collect the money, and give it to those who offered their books for sale. Such a procedure would save much wear and tear on the campus and would make possible a convenient method of circulating necessary textbooks. How about it, MR. CO-OP MANAGER!

PARCIPITATION ABSENT? . . .
 "Any old business? . . . well then, any new business?" We've heard it before and we'll hear it again and again. Why? . . . because we let things ride on the wave of routine. Suppose you are bashful. You still think of improvement; you still think of changes that would please you or a group of you; but . . . on we go . . . ! What human nature needs is a good physic, followed by a stimulus. It's true on the national scene even more so than in our own student-body.

WAKE UP! yes, wake up! before you die without ever having done anything but existed . . . existed among the masses who, in the words of James T. Farrell, "lie in rest in the peaceful acceptance of the wormy conclusion which is common fate." I'll close with an old Chinese proverb: "man who has not smiling face must not open shop" . . . SO!

Len Conry.

New Books

Mrs. Everett will soon be moving lots of new books from her office to the rental shelf in the library. Books have piled up over the holidays—those mentioned in the following paragraphs are only a few of the number that will soon be available.

In a serious vein (but certainly not dull), is "The Cherokee Strip," by Marquis James—a story of a young boy's growing up in a small Oklahoma town. A little of that country's history is mingled in and the reader absorbs it painlessly.

An informal narrative of San Francisco's most characteristic feature, is Edgar M. Kahn's "Cable Car Days," telling the complete story of the conveyance that gave San Francisco its distinguishing characteristic, from its origin 'till now and its gradual disappearance.

"Naked City" is a candid pic-

PEACE-TIME DRAFT

Undoubtedly we shall continue to need an army for many years, but why not raise it by voluntary means? Do we want militarism instilled in the minds of American youth? Can we honestly look at the effects of Nazism in Germany and Facism in Italy and fail to see how fruitless and wrong this lust for military power is?

Yes . . . we speak of PEACE. But can there be peace, when each nation is competing against each other to raise a bigger army, a stronger navy, and a more powerful air force? Can we plan for a third world war and expect peace? We may be the most powerful nation in the world now, but, as the weaker children join forces against the strong neighborhood bully, so would the weaker nations ally and overwhelm us.

If we must be powerful, let our power be in technological advances, not in a well-trained infantry. Germany, herself, has taught us the value of minds, well-trained in science. We should emphasize a superb educational program instead of this proposed militarism. In the event of a third world war we would have but one-tenth of the needed number of chemists, physicists, mathematicians, etc., necessary in such a situation. This type of training would be just as valuable in peace time, if not more than during a war emergency.

Certainly, if we have a peace-time draft, we would have youth physically tough, well-trained in military drill, and all with one point of view. But just how tough physically would our fellows be on a diet that is three per cent bee? And shouldn't rigorous physical training be begun long before the eighteenth year? Just how much of the close-order drill would a person remember over a period of, say, three years? What is the advantage of a uniform point of view? In democracy do we not strive for individualism?

Strong leaders emerge from situations where men are taught to think for themselves. What influence would military training have on the development of this important factor, freedom of thought? And, it is easy for a man to return to a classroom where he must think independently after being subjected to the "sarge's" barks for a year?

Finally, it seems clear that we shall either learn to live in peace, or, with robot armadas, fast moving parachute troops, and atomic bombs, the human race will disappear from the face of the earth. The better our educational opportunities, the more chance democracy has for the surviving. Well-educated youths, who will be the nation's strong citizens of tomorrow, appear to be our last best hope on earth.

Anne Murphy.

FACULTY NEWS

Our faculty spent their vacations in many places this Christmas. Miss Watson spent the holidays in Dixon, Calif. She wishes to announce that "Oklahoma" is coming to San Francisco early in February. MRS. LITTLE and MISS YOKUM spent part of the holidays at Mrs. Little's cabin at Moonstone Beach. Good weather was enjoyed by both.

MISS DIXON spent her holidays in San Francisco with her relatives. HELEN EVERETT was with her brother at Klamath Falls during Christmas. I hear the DEAN MURF and his wife, plus COACH BOHLER and his family ate turkey at MRS. McKITTRICK'S. DOC LANPHERE visited with relatives in Seattle. The KARSHNERS spent their vacation in both Eugene, Oregon, and in Aberdene, Washington.

DR. LODER and her family went to Boise, Idaho. I hear that they made the trip in 25 hours. "I have a few gray hairs as remembrances of the trip," says Dr. Loder. The FULKERSONS went to Carmel for Xmas and had a wonderful time. JOHN VAN DUZER spent his Christmas at home. POP JENKINS spent the holidays with his son in Palo Alto, and MRS. JEFFERS went to Camp Shoemaker.

Our faculty must be as fatigued as the students these days!

HSC Drops League Opener To Fortuna Independents

A free throw in the last 15 seconds of a play by Watson, Fortuna Independent guard, gave the Fortunans a 41-40 victory over the Humboldt Varsity in the opening game of the County Independent Basketball League.

The game-winning charity toss came after the collegians had pulled up from a 12 point deficit at the end of the third quarter to tie the count at 40-40. Len Longholm and Laurald Stebbins led the Humboldt offensive in that hectic final period.

Friedenback led the scoring for the winners with 19 points, while Longholm and Stebbins paced the Lumberjacks with 17 and 15 tallies respectively.

In the preliminary tilt, the Fortuna High heavyweights took a 33-23 win from the College Frosh.

Lumberjacks Vs. Gaters On 25th

The Golden Gaters of San Francisco State College will provide the Humboldt Lumberjacks with their first collegiate opposition of the season, when the two teams clash Friday and Saturday nights, Jan. 25 and 26 on the Kezar auditorium hardwood.

Strong opposition is in sight for the locals, the Gaters reported to have one of the stronger quintettes around the bay area, having met teams from Treasure Island and U. C.

All students who have the opportunity are urged to attend the games and show the Varsity that we are behind them to the hilt. The game is scheduled during the vacation period between semesters, thus making it possible for more student to attend.

Jerry Comfort netted 11 points to lead the victors while Jack Mouat paced the Frosh with 10.

The greatest single trawlable area along the coastline of Pacific North America lies in the easterly portion of the Bering Sea.

Varsity Wins From Korbel

A long shot by Dich Roach in the closing seconds of play enabled the Humboldt Varsity to eke out a 40-39 win over the Korbel Firemen in the second night of Humboldt County Independent League play.

Laurald Stebbins went eleven markers through the netting to paste the winners while Don Saladay, former Humboldt star, swished sixteen to lead the losers.

In the opening tilt of the evening, the Humboldt Frosh took a 36-28 win over the basketweavers from the Naval Air Station. Bud Cloney and Theron Carothers, frosh forwards, led the Humboldt attack with eight points each.

Men Wanted

A dispatch from the Office of Naval Officer Procurement has just been received. It is primarily intended for flyers of the future. The following has been taken from the dispatch:

Flyers of the future are not going to be satisfied with being just good flyers. They want to be well-educated, well-grounded with an all-around background and experience. As anticipated, 66 percent of the applicants selected "Flying" in answer to the question: "What part of the V-5 program appeals to you most strongly" as taken in a recent poll. However, the significant factor is that four out of five designated "A chance to get a college education," in answering "What is the next strongest appeal."

Under Navy's V-5 officer pilot training program, young men 17, 18, and 19 are eligible for selection for the March 1, 1946 class if they will have graduated from high school by February 26, 1946. One of the unique aspects of the program is that cadets receive four terms at an outstanding college prior to beginning their flight training. Not only are all expenses and maintenance paid for by the Navy, but the student receives a salary of $50 a month as well. This is in line with the Navy's policy of developing officers with a well-rounded education.

This dispatch was sent from the procurement office, 785 Market St., San Francisco. All of those who are interested should inform this address. For further details,

Frosh Splits With Arcata

In practice games played last Friday night in the College gymnasium, Humboldt Frosh broke even in two games with Arcata High, winning the game against the Tiger Heavyweights, 36-30, after dropping the opener to the Arcata Limiteds, 27-22.

In the heavyweight tussle, it was the accurate shooting and all around floor play of Cloney, Barry, Mouat, and Farrar which enabled the Humboldters to maintain their 20-16 half-time lead to the final whistle. Richie Silva and Charles Murphy paced the Tiger offensive.

Davis and Elmore, sharp-shooting light-weights forwards, led a third quarter offensive which put the Arcatans into a commanding lead which they never relinquished.

Your Team

Here is a list of the personalities that you will be seeing upon the hardwood this season.

VARSITY

Guards: Red Hunt, Franny Smigle, Wally McMillan, and Francis Barry; forwards: Laurald Stebbins, Len Longholm, Bud Cloney, and Dick Roach; centers: Jack Mauat, and Sweetpea Narron. Len Longholm is now acting captain of the varsity team.

FROSH

Forwards: Bud Cloney, Theron Carothers, Kenny Liscomb, Gene Wilkinson; centers: Jack Mouat, and Bob Williams; guards: Francis Barry, Bob Farrar and Charlie Peterson.

What a new year!!! Last Wednesday found volleyball gals a bit sluggish in their practice. However, the teams this season appear to be highly spirited and ready for tough competitive games.

The Soph team has the best chances of taking the championship; their players have had more practice together and know how to set up, smash, and work as a team.

Gals, be sure to check that new sweater of Garland's. Incidentally, is not a ski sweater, but a hard-earned one.

Initiation of new eligible members into W.A.A. will be held next term, so keep this in mind.

Thats all for now, gals, but keep pitchin . . . or something!

MY DAY

By HELEN HIGHWATER

Today has been a rather hard day for me. I went sightseeing around the campus . . . its such a large campus that I am worn out. I feel like a deflated balloon.

Let me see . . . I began my day by arising. Some people say that this is the first mistake of the day . . . but arose is a rose when it is a rose. At any rate, I got out of my bed. I was suddenly possessed with the whim to visit the Humboldt campus, so off I started, well-equipped with matches, chewing gum, soda-pop, and a safety razor. I would have brought my ax only it broke its axis and I had to leave it home.

I entered the main hall of Nelson Hall and was quietly looking about, when suddenly a herd of wild buffaloes came thundering out of the kitchen. I was literally trampled to death. I heard someone yell, "Perky, wait for me," and then I merely sat back and prepared for the worst. My next objective was the kitchen, and I would have made it, if Sissy Thompson hadn't suddenly charged by on her hore scamming:

"All ashore who's going ashore." I left Nelson Hall and went into the main building. There I saw students of all sizes and colors parading about in their new Christmas clothes. Don Williams is so proud of that new sweater that he's going to have "I got it for Christmas" engraved upon the back. I saw Alene Beers floating down the halls on a silver rug. She was reading, "7 Night in a Bar Room," and she sure was homesick.

I went down into lab rooms where I saw John Parrish buried

Dear Miss Hix

Dear Miss Hix:

I am all alone in the world, dearie, with no one to advise me on as what to do about this pressing problem. You see, dearie, that handsome, luscious, strong-armed, charming, beautiful, wonderful SLUCK DOTTERS has asked me for his hand in marriage. Naturally I accepted, because he has the dough. In time I can learn to yearn, but right now I'm after his money. However, my true love is SMACK underneath a pile of huge books. Suddenly John raised his head and yelled:

"I found it. I found it."

"Found What?" I asked.

"I found my fat bodies. They were hidden under my chromosomes which had split into tetrads and a brolla brolla suit."

John giggled merrily on his way, and I left.

My next objective was Made-moiselle Johnson's French class, but suddenly Don Ray came riding down the hall on his motor scooter, selling Leumberjacks. He was being chased by Franny Brizard and a mob of advertisers, so I thought I'd better hide for the moment. Suddenly I saw Dr. Balabanis walking about taking donations for the National Greek War Relief Fund. I only had a nickle, so I ran for the co-op. There I saw Charlie Peterson and Fanucci arguing about the chicken and the egg. Peterson was so wrapped up in the chicken, and Fanucci the egg (the egg is the object, not an adjective) (not bad . . . eh Mr. Hicklin?) so I thought I'd better leave.

Ah yes! To be in college again. Well, I'll have more to tell you next issue, so hang on.

JIVERT. Smack is the athletic type, and let me tell you, dearie, he lives up to his type. I have to have eight bones set after every date with him.

SMACK knows of my feelings for SLUCK, and thinks I done him dirt. Whats a poor girl gonna do these days? You understand, don't you dearie? SMACK is a poor farm boy from the old country (recently returned) and he wants me to settle down and be a farmer's daughter.

I couldn't do it . . . and yet I love him passionately. SLUCK can give me everything my little heart desires, but only SMACK can give me what I want most.

What should I do derie, I want love, but also want money. Do you suppose I could marry them both? Please let me know, dearie, because the situation is becoming alarming.

Sincerely,

Bowbrain Snathahay.

My dear Miss Snathahay:

I have given your case much thought these past few days. You are right, my dear, you have a situation. Everyone wants love, but one can't live on love alone. (at least I don't think one can) And you most certainly can not marry them both . . . three in one bed is a pain in the head.

May I suggest that you strive to make SMACK SIVERT care more for an honorable position in life. If you really love him, help him in his work. You needn't be a farmer's daughter, my dear. Teach him other professions. As for SLUCK DOTTERS, don't lead him on. I know that he secretly admires SMAT FRIGHT, and let those two have their happiness.

Let your heart lead you, my

VELVET THORNS

By LEN CONRY

An answer to my article on "The Human Comedy" appeared in "Letters to the Editor." Let me quote a definition from a remarkable book, by an outstanding iconoclast, Ambrose Bierce. His book, entitled, "The Devil's Dictionary," says, quote: "ABSTAINER: a weak person who yields to the temptation of denying himself a pleasure." Good old Ambrose! To save my face, and possibly my soul, let me add the Greeks' point of view: "Everything in Moderation."

Nor do I consider drinking essential in social activities. My point is that you don't have to do as JOHN does, but if JOHN does differently than you . . . dont condemn! Do I approve of wild drinking parties THAT so disgraced the name of this school? Sorry, if that was the interpretation. Others will always talk and gossip (unfortunately with destructive criticism). This method is sometimes helpful . . . but seldom. None of us advocate the extremist, and isn't that what we are primarily concerned with most of the time? Thanks, and I loved your letter (sincerely, and without the usual Irish sarcasm) it shows that YOU ARE THINKING . . . whether constructively or not is a matter of opinion . . . and please don't froth at the mouth.

LAURELS . . .

To our editor on his new "make-up" on pages one, two, three, and four. OUR paper, we must remember, goes to MANY other colleges, and forms an impression. We are adults . . . not adolescents . . . (a methodical process of maturing explained in some length in the study of Biology). We don't have to be unconventional to be different, or better yet . . . to be REALISTS.

Xmas Memoirs

Humboldt students outdid themselves with Christmas celebrations. The entire student body turned out for the gala three day festivities.

The Christmas Music assembly was both solemn and inspiring. Our choir, making its appearance at the end of the program really sounded forth with some beautiful singing. It does something to a person when he hears beautiful music, and our choir certainly added much to the program. Top dear. True happiness is earned by love and patience. You will soon forget to care for money. You are at the age when it most important. You will grow out of it. Hopefully yours,

Orchids to Annie Babler and Neil Frost, managers, for their fine supervision.

The Xmas caroling party, held on Dec. 18, provided fun for all attending. The carolers, a group of thirty, walked through Arcata singing carols. Many fine reports were given concerning the singing.

Nelson Hall members enjoyed a party following the caroling. Both men and women assembled in the lounge around the Xmas tree and opened presents. Games and refreshments were also enjoyed.
