The late Mrs. Elma McCann Folsom assisted each student immeasurably by instilling in him a greater love and appreciation of literature and, consequently, of life itself. Because of her cheerful philosophy, sterling character, splendid teachings, and especially her utmost sincerity, this book is respectfully dedicated to her memory.

ATHLETICS

This attractive gym is the home of the successful Lumberjacks and the favorite spot for the many varied recreational sports.

FAMILIAR SCENES

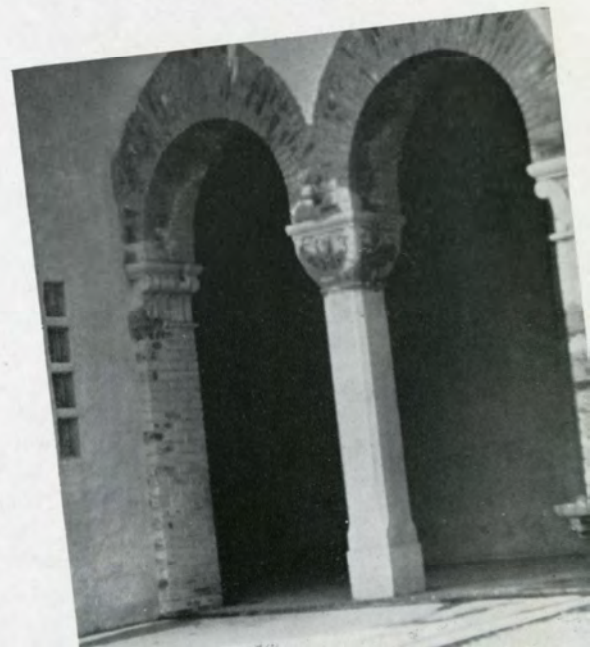

Two familiar campus sights are the statue "Winged Victory" and the inner pool, although the latter is often too familiar to over-zealous frosh.

College Elementary School

Humboldt State College is ideally located for the many sports-minded students. All year round one may transfer himself in an hour or two from books and urban life to fishing, hunting, sailing, swimming, or, as above, skiing.

FAMILIAR SCENES

These are the two most popular rooms in the building for a student not in class is usually either in the splendid library studying assiduously or in the comfortable social unit discussing school activities, the world situation, or the latest movie.

Comfort, congenial atmosphere, beauty—these are expressive of the attractive Girls' Lounge of Nelson Hall, where dorm girls love to relax.

Probably the most familiar meeting-place of Humboldt's students after an exhaustive examination or a fast game of tennis is the Co-op.

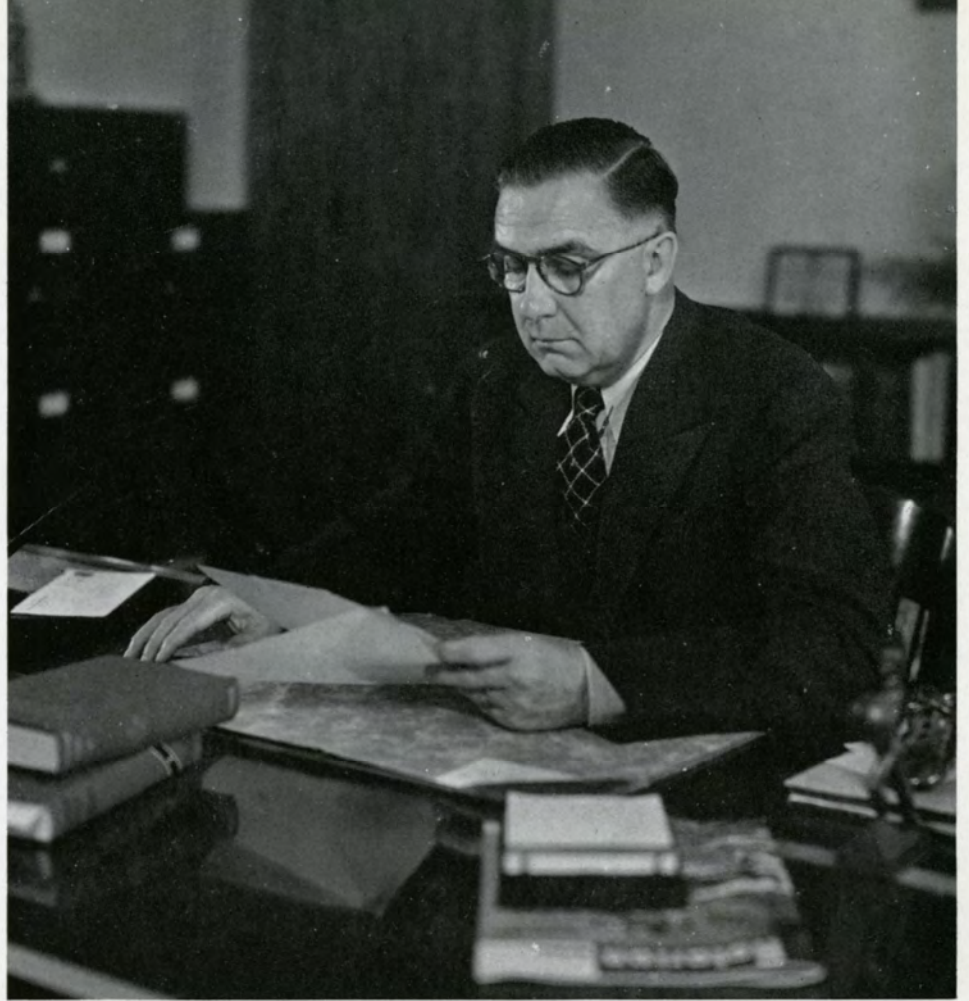

ADMINISTRATION

....FACULTY

President Arthur S. Gist

THE PRESIDENT

Continuity in the life of a school is represented by the president. He personifies the link between those of us who hope to graduate and those who preceeded us. He strikes the cords with which our school vibrates. In a large measure he determines the personality of our school. To a large extent the character of the president is the character of the school.

We like our president. He is fair. He sees and appreciates the student's attitudes even though he does not always approve of them. He is capable. He has seen the school double in enrollment under his administration. He has had a new dormitory built which is the equal of any in California. Now he is seeing a new stadium constructed. It is no wonder that we like our president.

ADMINISTRATIVE

The scholastic soul of any college is the administration. They weld the faculty and the students into a single academic unit. We can have professors and still not have a college—it is the work of the office staff that circulates the life blood of knowledge.

ASSOCIATED STUDENTS

In these trying times when democracy itself is being threatened, the function of student government has taken on increased importance. In the experience in democracy being gained by these men and women and by similar groups throughout America, we find one of the most important contributions which our school system makes to the cause of a democratic way of life.

Bud Villa,
President.

Snooky Edsall,
Vice-President.

Rosie Ivancich,
Secretary.

Gomer Jones,
Treasurer.

The Executive Council is the representative body through which student government functions. The members are elected by the students and represent and legislate for all the varied types of student activities. They control absolutely the drawing up of the budget of the associated students; they establish in a large measure the athletic policy which the school will follow. To a large extent they determine the policy of the school itself.

BOARD OF CONTROL

The six members of the Board of Control serve as ex-officio members of the executive council. They determine student conduct, and establish what can and cannot be done by members of the student body.

STUDENT

The Associated Students are the supreme authority in the hierarchy of student government, but below it are the class organizations which control and supervise the activity of the various classes. The function of these class organizations are many and varied. The senior class is the most active, presenting the Senior Carnival and the Senior Ball.

What is that welter of intangible emotion that arises within the heart of every senior as he hears the first strains of the processional march announcing the culmination of four years of college activities? It is regret, anxiety, hope, or anticipation; or is it a composite reaction far more exclusive? Regardless, they emerge triumphant and victorious leaving behind a world of ideals and accepting the challenge to put into practice the many theories which have formed the basis for years of study.

COMMERCIAL GRADUATES

For many years one of the five largest and most popular departments in the school is the Commercial department whose graduates have built an enviable reputation for themselves among the business houses of Humboldt County. Members have the added advantage of preparing for a vocation in a two year period and still availing themselves of the opportunity of participation in college life. Students now receive their diplomas with the graduating class.

ACTIVITIES..

MEN'S ASSOCIATION

George Hartman, Pres.

The Men's Association, one of the oldest of campus organizations with perhaps the largest membership, again continued on its merry way this year, intent on giving both its members and the campus as a whole a good time. Of course, the top events were, as usual, the annual barn Dance and later the "picnic". Interest in both reached a new high, and overshadowed perhaps even the serious duty of awarding two scholarships to local high school graduates proficient in athletics and scholarship.

ASSOCIATED WOMEN STUDENTS

The still new, but steadily growing more important Associated Women Students of Humboldt State College this year had its year of greatest and most comprehensive activity. Starting again with the Frosh Roundup, the A. W. S. got under way with a bang. A series of panel discussions were held at various times throughout the year to help Humboldt's women better understand the problems they must face. Other activities included "get acquainted" dances at the start of each semester, principally for the benefit of incoming freshmen, the A. W. S. drill team, and the Mother's Day tea and fashion show. Also through the efforts of A. W. S. delegates, the sectional convention of Women's Associations was secured for Humboldt next year.

D R A M A

The year in drama at Humboldt was marked first by the return of Garff Bell Wilson—now Dr. Wilson—to head of the department after two years' leave of absence which he spent studying at Cornell. Secondly the year was marked by the consistent excellence of his productions.

First play of the year was Clare Boothe's satirical anti-Nazi melodrama, "Margin for Error". The play saw several Freshmen share honors with two old hands in a rapid-fire hit. Dealing with the murder of a hated Nazi consul in America, the drama first centered around the villainous victim, then around the lowly Jewish cop who finally solves the crime. Freshman Zane Nichols played cop Moe Finkelstein, and Rod Belcher was consul Karl Baumer. Remainder of the fine cast included Richard Jarboe, Clarke Nellist, Marella White, Bill Madsen, Allen Lowry, Nancy Jo Birnie, and Hermon Jones.

FRENCH

Second major production of the year and one of the most outstanding and effective plays ever produced at Humboldt was Paul Osborn's fantasy, "On Borrowed Time." Starring in the very human and touching tale of devotion between grandfather and grandson were Richard Jarboe and young Maurice Elmore of the College Elementary School. Completing the cast were Jack Sivert, Louise Corbin, Warrene Elmore, Betty Fay, Dean Galloway, Charles Waters, Martin Stockel, and Hobart Davis.

ON BORROWED TIME

Between the two aforementioned productions, the drama department presented an evening of three experimental one-act plays—one a farce, one a poetic fantasy, and one a comedy-drama. The varied farce offered an evening of interesting and well performed plays.

WITHOUT TEARS

Final effort of the season was the gay comedy by Terence Rattigan, "French Without Tears." Presented in May in the spirit of spring, this light offering was the tale of a group of men and their individual methods of combatting a predatory female. In the slap-happy cast were Maxine Maxwell, Zane Nichols, Jack Sivert, Marella White, Clarke Nellist, Marilyn Brown, Dan McClure, Bud Villa and Bill Fiedler.

M U S I C

The music department of Humboldt has four purposes: to provide for the cultural education of students through acquaintanceship with music as a literature; to provide prospective teachers with some musical education as a part of their teaching equipment; to provide music for the community; and, to provide some training for specialists in music.

BACH ORATORIO

Humboldt's mixed chorus of ninety voices and the College Little Symphony Orchestra presented Bach's Christmas Oratorio during the holiday season. J. H. Welton, faculty member of the College of the Pacific, was guest soloist. Student soloists included Karen Loft, Jean Schussman, Allan Lowry, and Eugene Hammond. Following the Oratorio, the A Cappella Choir presented a beautiful candlelight service, singing old Christmas Carols of foreign countries.

In the receiving line: Mrs. Edmund V. Jeffers, J. Henry Welton, tenor; Jean Schussman, soprano; Allan Lowry, baritone; Karen Loft, contralto; Eugene Hammond, baritone; Mrs. Arthur S. Gist.

Front row: Gosselin, Pratt, Schussman, Swan, Arnold, Schoel, Bird, Birme, Crane, W. Elmore, Walsh, Pinches, Ruud, Bongio, Roscoe, Hammond, Belfils, Matteoli.

A CAPPELLA CHOIR . . . CHORUS

The A Cappella Choir, composed of thirty-four selected voices, made a 700 mile tour of high schools and educational conferences this spring. The world famous Reverend William J. Finn of New York, before whom the group appeared, had only the highest praise for the choir. Locally the choir made over twenty-five appearances. . . . The chorus of 100 members was started this year as an experiment and has proven highly successful. It provides an opportunity for any student to participate in a musical organization without tryouts.

LITTLE SYMPHONY .. SPRING CONCERT

"Ballad for Americans" and "Song of Faith" were presented by the chorus, choir, orchestra, and Arcata High School A Cappella Choir. Joel Carter of Stanford University was soloist. The orchestra, composed of forty-five students and community people, played a Mozart Symphony. The A Cappella Choir also gave several selections.

The good fortune of many years crept up on Humboldt at last during the 1940 season. Blessed for several seasons by good weather and freedom from injuries in any number, the hard-heartedness of Jupe Pluvius and the old injury jinx combined to help Humboldt to its poorest season in many years. It was the first time in five years that the Lumberjacks lost more games than they won, and the first time in 19 years that Herb Hart had coached a losing team. However, for a team that was reduced from 30 the following night. In a return series with Chico, the boys dropped the first 60-47 but took the second 41-26. Travelling to Ashland, Humboldt copped both ends of the series from Southern Oregon 55-53 and 57-50. Next was Oregon College of Education and the Lumberjacks again took two, 47-40 and 53-45. Southern Oregon split in a return series, Humboldt winning the first 57-49 and the Ashlanders the second 46-34.
